Ending 136-Day Strike

The 136-day strike at the Bethlehem shipyards in Quincy ends as hundreds of workers march through the main gate of the plant today. Settlement of the strike provides for a 12 cents an hour wage increase. It was estimated that the workers, including those at the Bethlehem yards in East Boston, who also returned to work today, lost $6,000,000 in pay during the strike.

Marshall Raps Reds In Aid Plea

By JOHN A. REICHMANN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (INS) — Sec. Marshall asked Congress today for $597,000,000 to prevent starvation and the spread of Communism this winter in Italy, France and Austria.

Marshall appeared before the congressional foreign policy committees in joint session, urging emergency aid pending enactment of a long-range recovery program. He declared the step necessary to preserve freedom in the needy countries.

The secretary lashed out bitterly at Russia.

As Marshall outlined the need for stopgap assistance, the State Department submitted to the committees a suggested draft of the Emergency Aid Bill, emphasizing it is needed to prevent serious economic retrogression.

It was also disclosed that the armed forces later would seek an additional $500,000,000 or more to meet a deficit in occupation costs, created by rising prices and the necessity of taking over some British expenditures in the German bi-zonal area.

Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan, announced after a closed-door session that "the first job is stopgap aid" but that his committee also must have general overall information on the long range program.

Other committee members including Sens. Connally (D.) of Texas, Barkley (D.) of Kentucky, Hatch (D.) of New Mexico, White (R.) of Maine, Smith (R.) of New Jersey, Capper (R.) of Kansas, and Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts, praised Marshall's presentation of the critical situation.

Marshall based the estimate on the long-range plan becoming effective by next March 31. He said the interim aid proposal would cover Italy, France and Austria only through that period.

In pledging assistance for the nationalist government of China, he said:

"The Chinese Communists by force of arms seek control of wide areas of China.

"The United States and all other world powers recognize the National Government as the sole legal government of China."

GUIDING PRINCIPLES

He set forth four principles:

1—The program must be operated in a way to define and express the foreign policy of the United States in the eyes of the European countries and the world.

2—The organization administering the plan must be granted widest practicable flexibility in its operations and use of funds.

3—Existing government agencies should be used fully to carry out parts of the program falling within the scope of their present activity.

4—There should be a strong central administrative direction resulting in "unity of command rather than diffusion of authority and responsibility."

Marshall placed blame for much

Hynes Awards $1,548,304 Vets' Housing

Mayor Hynes came up with a $1,548,304 answer today to the problem of veterans' housing, awarding contracts for that amount for the construction of 80 two-family homes in Mattapan, Hyde Park and Dorchester.

The houses will cost approximately $20,000 each and will be rented to veterans at prices ranging from $50 to $65 a month.

Under the State law, the cityy will be required to sell the houses at the end of five years. It is unlikely it could realize the amount invested in them at that time.

The mayor also forwarded a $3,000,000 loan order to the City Council, representing the city's share in the cost of the long-delayed Cathedral housing project in the South End. This project would provide 508 apartments.

The largest contract awarded today was for $646,560 to the Matthew Cummings Co. for construction of 33 two-family homes in Hawthorne st., Readville. Another for $321,799 to the Bennett Stewart Co., Inc., provided for construction of 17 two-family homes in River st., Mattapan.

The M. S. Kelliher Co. was awarded for construction of 20 homes in River st. Construction Units, Inc., was awarded a $111,555 contract for six homes at Sawyer ave., and Downer st., Dorchester,, and $93,558 for five homes at Tileston and Windsor sts., Mattapan.

Hynes also announced the appointment of Atty. John C. Conley, assistant counsel for the Boston Housing Authority since 1943, as a member of the board to succeed Mrs. Eva Whiting White, who resigned recently.

Gen. Meyers Tried to Borrow $200,000, Hughes Tesfifies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Howard Hughes said today Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers asked him for $200,000 to finance a $10,000,000 bond deal at the time negotiations were going on for Hughes' $40,000,000 wartime plane contracts.

Testifying at a Senate inquiry, Hughes also said Meyers raised the subject of a job at Hughes' Culver City, Cal., plane plant. He said he agreed neither to a loan nor a job.

Meyers, a witness last week, had told the Senate War Investigating Committee that Hughes offered him a job and told him he could "write your own ticket" as to pay.

Hughes declared flatly that was not true.

As for the loan request, Hughes said under the terms of the proposal Meyers made, either he or the Hughes Tool Co., was to guarantee the purchase against decline in the value of the bonds.

Meyers, sitting just a few feet away from the millionaire plane designer and movie producer, snorted in obvious disgust as Hughes testified.

Hughes referred to the alleged bond deal as one for "liberty bonds." This name was applied to bonds issued during World War I, but these bonds have matured. Presumably, he used the term loosely to apply to other government bonds.

TO COVER MARGIN POINTS

Hughes told the senators he understood the $200,000 would cover two margin points on the bond purchase, and that if the bonds went down more than that amount, Hughes would guarantee to put up $100,000 for each additional point they declined.

"He said I wasn't going to lose," Hughes said, adding that as things turned out, he would not have lost money.

Hughes said there was a "complete breach of friendship" after he turned down the request for a $200,000 loan and Meyers did not speak to him for two years.

The committee is inquiring into circumstances of $40,000,000 in plane contracts awarded to Hughes.

"When I finally and definitely turned down the loan proposition," Hughes said, "I thought Gen. Meyers was going to find some way to throw a monkey wrench into that F-11 (photo reconnaissance) plane contract if it was the last thing he ever did."

MEYERS APPROVED DEAL

But Hughes added that Meyers apparently went ahead and approved the contract anyway.

chief of Air Force procurement during the war.

McCarthy said Hughes sent him to see Meyers to find out what Meyers had in mind.

McCarthy said Hughes turned down Meyers' proposal as an "improper arrangement" in view of the fact Meyers had a role in negotiation of the photo plane contract.

Ferguson asked Hughes what McCarthy told him when he returned from seeing Meyers.

"McCarthy mentioned to me a loan . . . to buy on margin some liberty bonds," Hughes began.

"What was the amount of the loan," Ferguson asked.

"The amount of the loan was $200,000," Hughes replied.

"Then you knew that Benny Meyers meant business, didn't you?" Ferguson demanded.

Hughes objected to the phrase "meant business." He said that was "open to many interpretations." Hughes added:

"He didn't think he was taking advantage of me. And apparently he went ahead and passed the contract."

"But what did you think about it in your mind?" Ferguson persisted.

"Well, Senator, it would have been improper in his (Meyers') mind only if he felt it to be morally wrong."

"But did you think it was improper?"

Hughes replied that Meyers' request for the $200,000 would only be "improper" if it had any bearing on the general's decision on the photo plane contract.

Pill Winner In Cambridge Poll

Councilor Hyman Pill became the third candidate assured of election to the Cambridge City Council today as the tabulation of Plan E ballots went on for the fifth day.

A short time later tabulation showed that W. Donnison Swan had reached the quota of votes needed to become the fourth candidate assured of election. Election was assured last week for Mayor John D. Lynch and Councilor Michael Neville.

The complete vote on the equal pay for men and women teachers referendum showed 18,842 in favor and 7830 opposed. There were 11,951 blanks.

Parole Board Denial Of Noxon Plea Seen

The pardon petition of John F. Noxon, Jr., whose death sentence for murder of his mentally deficient infant son was commuted to life, was reported heading for disapproval by the State Parole Board today.

SAMUEL S. GRANITO — JOSEPH BELLINA
Nabbed as Payroll Holdup Suspects During Roundup

Matthew W. Bullock, board chairman, is against the pardon and will submit his findings to the two other male members of the board today, it was learned on reliable authority.

The two women members of the board are restrained by statute from acting on other than petitions involving members of their sex.

It was known Bullock completed his report Friday and redrafted a section of it during the week-end. It was also learned he had expressed his attitude toward release of the wealthy Pittsfield attorney to at least one other member of the board.

A two-thirds vote among the three male members of the board is necessary for a recommendation of pardon to the attorney general, who may then pass the matter on to the governor with his own recommendation.

TWO TRIALS REVIEWED

Bullock's colleagues are Frederick J. Bradlee, Jr., of Boston, and Harold R. Lundgren of Worcester.

The chairman's expected action today will be in climax to three weeks of reviewing the court transcripts of both Noxon trials—one was declared a mistrial following a juror's illness.

It will also come in the wake of an investigation which has extended ever since former Gov. Ely, chief Noxon counsel, began his campaign to win full clemency for the Pittsfield man.

The inquiry likewise has taken into consideration the stand of Dist. Atty. Alberti, who convicted Noxon and has consistently opposed efforts to win him a pardon.

15 Holdup Witnesses Fail to Identify Trio

Three men, picked up in the investigation of the $110,000 B. F. Sturtevant plant payroll holdup in Hyde Park last Oct. 30, were paraded in a police lineup today before 15 witnesses, nine of them women, but none of them was recognized or identified.

Four of the witnesses were employes of the American Sugar Refinery office in South Boston, where $29,000 was stolen Oct. 31.

The three, arrested Saturday when two other men were picked up in New York and New Jersey, will be held on John Doe warrants charging armed robbery in the Sturtevant robbery, police said.

Additional information for questioning is expected when Lt. James V. Crowley returns from New York, where he has been working with detectives from the office of Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan on that end of the case since last Tuesday.

NO TRACE OF $110,000

The five men, including the two in New York and New Jersey, had been under surveillance since last Monday, when detectives in Hogan's office ran across a clue while working on another case. Crowley and State Police Lt. James A. Cunniff were sent to New York to work with them.

Although the men have been in custody since Saturday, officials here and in New York admitted no trace of the $110,000 had yet been found.

The break came last Saturday when New York detectives arrested Samuel S. Granito, 39, of South Third st., Brooklyn, near his home. Within two hours Boston police had rounded up the three men here on John Doe warrants charging armed robbery.

The fifth man, Joseph "Happy Joe" Bellina, 40, of Walnut st., Newark, N. J., was picked up by FBI agents and is being held by them.

Police identified them as Anthony "Tony" Pino, 39, formerly of Kennebec st., Dorchester; his brother-in-law, Vincent Costa, 33, and Michael Geoghegan, 40, of Hill st., Somerville. All have previous records for holdups or safebreaking.

Police refused to confirm a report they had picked up a girl friend of one of the trio and questioned her at length at headquarters yesterday.

FILM STAR RITA HAYWORTH
Says Orson Didn't Want to Make a Home for Her

Welles Wanted 17 Children, Loses Rita

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10 (AP)—Rita Hayworth ended her tempestuous, separation-ridden marriage with Orson Welles today, obtaining a divorce on testimony the one-time "boy wonder" of the stage, screen and radio didn't want to make a home for her.

She won her decree in a brief hearing in superior court, where she had filed suit Oct. 1.

The actress was agreeable to a reconciliation as recently as a few weeks ago, her business agent, Charles E. Trazona testified. He said he met Welles at an airport when he flew in from New York and told him so, but that Orson retorted that he didn't want to be tied down by marriage.

Miss Hayworth, attired in a gray checked suit and a mink coat, testified Welles spent three-fourths of his time away from home.

"During the entire period of our marriage," she declared, "he showed no interest in establishing a home. When I suggested purchasing a home, he told me he didn't want the responsibility.

"Mr. Welles told me he never should have married in the first place; that it interfered with his freedom in his way of life."

The actress-dancer, 29, whose real name is Margarita Cansino, and Welles, 32, were married in 1943 to the surprise of most of Hollywood — including, presumably, Victor Mature, whom Rita had been expected to wed.

Their baby, Rebecca, was born late in 1944, at which time she disclosed Orson wanted 17 offspring but "three or four would be enough for me."

Then came the first of their separations. But they were reconciled, made a picture together in Mexico last year, then parted again last spring, when Rita opined:

"Certainly I'm going to marry again," but added that she hadn't "the slightest idea" who it might be.

Both she and Welles had been married previously, Miss Hayworth to oil man Edward Judson, Welles to Actress Ann Lederer, mother of his first child, a daughter, Christopher, now 9.

Miss Hayworth won Rebecca's custody and $50 a week for the child's support.

'Too Little, Too Late' Bogs AMG in Reich, Lake Holds

By AUSTEN LAKE
Boston American Staff Correspondent

FRANKFURT, Germany—I have completed a five-week circle of the U. S. Constabulary, its regiments and outposts, where our Occupation of Germany is put to the acid test. I have watched operations in the field, lived with the troops, traveled thousands of miles by jeep and plane, taken testimony from hundreds of soldiers, officers and Germans who represent a cross section of Occupation thought.

Almost unanimously these people say they have never before seen an American correspondent. Thus it is a reasonable assumption that such a first hand analysis of ground level operations has not previously been attempted. I say that with certainty.

THEY BEG FOR TRUTH

I offer the above summary to qualify myself as an analyst of 33 months of "democratic" education on our late antagonist. Dozens of times in these five weeks I have heard our officers and men implore:

"Tell the American people the truth. Don't write more of the sugar-coated pap we have read in U. S. journals."

I have done as they asked, conscientiously and, I trust, constructively, as a guide to U. S. correction while there is still time.

I find a uniform dissatisfaction in these ground levels with Lt. Gen. Lucius Clay's administration. The charges are a fumbling lack of policy, contradiction in functions of military government, a state of internal confusion between the various agencies (Constabulary, M. G., Intelligence, Relief, etc.) and a woeful distrust of our Occupation aims.

Yet I doubt that the blame focuses entirely on Gen. Clay so much as on the stateswide pressure being placed on him by an ill-informed American people and Congress, which has cut his operating budget to the bone.

There is a shortage of essential supplies, from office stationery to transportation. There is a lack of administrative personnel and a general substitution of German and DP employes for the rapidly vanishing American.

The result is "too little, too late, and too few," stemming from the American attitude that the Occupation is an expensive stepchild. That's one form of pressure on Gen. Clay.

DEPRIVES CLAY OF TOOLS

Another is the U. S. State Dept. policy to avoid any action which Russia may construe as a demonstration of offensive strength in manpower, material or weapons, lest the Soviet counter with a greater mass of power and both sides start to pyramid strength and mutual suspicions to the point of explosion. Who can say this is not wise? Yet it deprives Gen. Clay of the proper tools to enforce effective Occupation, and begets another angle of pressure.

This entails the "democratizing" of the German people and a premature return to self government from the provincial minister-presidents, councils, burgomeisters, bureaucrats, to the police, most of whom function timidly and without popular respect.

Clay has had no other choice than to withdraw his thinned forces to a "supervisory" position —a government by "expediency." Thus the Constabulary regiments and squadrons (the law enforcement arm) are concentrated in barrack centers, like firemen waiting an alarm, except for small jeep patrols and border guards.

Military Government officials and their "indigenous" staffs are salted thinly through outlying counties (Kreise) and towns with no executive authority and a confused notion of duty. Result is a hodge-podge of pseudo-democracy which even resident Americans fail to recognize as the U. S. brand, and a bewilderment among German civilians, who seldom know where authority rests.

Actually it's a forced feeding of Democracy impelled by U. S. budget economy and State Department policy—not for neighborly love of the German.

LOBBY WELL HEELED

Nor is that the end of Clay's pressures. There is a powerful Displaced Persons lobby in Frankfurt, Munich and Nuernberg, composed of U. S. nationalist groups (well heeled with money), which, while humanitarian in theory, are hampering in effect.

The DP population, which is variously estimated at 450,000, but which is actually many times larger, is an assorted mixture of (1) genuine persecutees, (2) lazy grifters, (3) small and big racketeers, and (4) the bottom of Europe's barrel.

These are fed, housed and clothed at standards far below U. S. level, but in many cases far above accustomed prewar standards of their homelands.

Result—a large percentage are content to remain in indigence. They are not obliged to work, don't want to be repatriated, and lapse into moral decadence, intrigue and hotbeds of black marketeering while waiting for foreign adoption—preferably American.

Many of these DP's are bad moral risks, and a percentage outright criminals. Yet well-mean-

Chelsea Vet Wins Son's Custody; Congratulated by Loser

Court Awards Baby Son to Overseas Vet

Four-year-old Gerald Bellmore, Jr., described by Probate Judge John V. Mahoney as "a victim of competitive love," today was given into the custody of his father, a young Chelsea overseas veteran, from whom he had been withheld since birth as the result of a broken wartime marriage.

But because the new father-son relationship may be bewildering to the child, Judge Mahoney advised the father, a Marine wounded in service, to take the boy only on week-ends at first.

Tears were shed at the court hearing, but not by the mother, who did not appear. The court was told she had placed her baby, when he was but five weeks old, with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Morway of Oxford, who have cared for the boy as one of their own. The Morways took Gerald, Jr., after grieving over the death of their youngest child.

They contested Bellmore's fight for custody. Judge Mahoney told them:

"How can I say that your love is stronger than the father's? You are exceptionally fine people. You have given the child happiness. I am fully conscious of that. But by the nature of things I must decide for the father."

Mrs. Morway's eyes were brimming and her husband was downcast. Judge Mahoney asked them if they could find it in their hearts to shake hands with the father and wish him well. They managed it.

It was too much, however, for their daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Morway Bissonette, one of four children. She burst into tears and cried, "I can't shake hands with him." Nor did she.

Work Resumed In Shipyards

The 19-week strike at the Fore River and East Boston shipyards of Bethlehem Steel Co. was officially at an end today as 4800 workers returned to the yards, with 2040 at Fore River rushing construction of three Navy cruisers.

Powerhouse crews entered the yards at 12:01 a. m. to prepare for resumption of full time operations.

The strike was ended by negotiations in Washington which gave the workers a new hourly pay rate of $1.50, a raise of 12 cents, together with a seniority clause retained intact and a three-week vacation guarantee for men with 25 years' service. Negotiations were approved by union men at meetings in Quincy and East Boston.

Suspect Smashed Love Lane Death Gun, Cop Says

State Police Lt. Gerald McCarthy resumed the witness stand in Middlesex Superior Court today and testified that Richard P. Dupont, 20, Lily st., Lowell, one of two defendants charged with the murder of a Lowell ex-GI, accused him of knowing "all the time that the two bullets came from my gun."

Under direct examination by Asst. Dist. Atty. Lyman C. Sprague, McCarthy said the accusation was made when he visited Dupont in East Cambridge jail March 19, almost three weeks after Mario Grimolizzi, 26, the ex-GI, had been shot to death as he sat in his parked car with Maureen Gilday, 17, Third st., Lowell. Co-defendant with Dupont is Michael F. Coggins, Jr., 20, Jewett st., Lowell.

The State Police officer also identified a vise and two hammers found in Dupont's cellar and said they had been used to break up the gun.

Coggins, continued McCarthy, told him he had spent the night of the crime in various bars and had gone to sleep at an aunt's house, returning to his own home the following afternoon.

McCarthy said he told Dupont at the time that he did not know the bullets had come from Dupont's gun. No gun has yet been found in the case, although a 10-year-old Lowell diner employe testified Friday that Dupont showed him a .22 caliber revolver several hours before the crime was committed.

Under cross-examination by Atty. William R. Scharton, counsel for Dupont, McCarthy denied knowing or hearing that the defendant had been beaten by other State Police officers to force a confession.

"Do you know that the boy was operated on for a tumor as a result of the beating?" asked Scharton.

"No," said McCarthy.

Dr. Joseph T. Walker, State Police chemist, has already testified that stains on the hands of both defendants, found several hours after the crime, were consistent with bloodstains.

The trial is continuing.

Suicide Changes Mind---Too Late

Leslie Stover, 30, of Main st., Malden, wrote a note today explaining he could find no work and was suffering from ill health.

Then he turned on the gas stove jets and sat down to await release from the cares of life.

The building superintendent, Cornelius Crane, detected the fumes and called police. When they broke in, Stover was slumped in the chair, dead, but his leg was thrust through a shattered window glass, as though he had changed his mind—too late.

Medical Examiner Andrew Guthrie pronounced it suicide.

Malden Landlord Freed of Contempt

Salvatore Rosi, 62, Traverse terr., Malden, who was arrested at his home Thursday by federal officers on a contempt order after he had prepared to repel all borders with two shotguns and a pistol, was purged of his contempt in federal court today.

Rosie had ignored a court order to provide rear and cellar door keys for his upstairs tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Frederick, who complained they couldn't move in coal for their furnace.

Today, however, Judge Arthur D. Healey said he had been informed Rosi made amends by providing the keys. He was discharged.

Still pending against him are charges of assault, assault with a dangerous weapon and interfering with a deputy U. S. marshal in the performance of his duty, all outgrowths of Rosi's home defense gestures.

Unsafe House Still a Home, Judge Rules

Be it ever so humble—and ready to tumble—there's no place like a home, especially during the current housing shortage, it was demonstrated today in Central municipal court.

The old adage underwent a paraphrasing in effect when Judge Elijah Adlow found Ellis Levitan of Bowdoin st., Dorchester, not guilty of maintaining a building in an unsafe condittion.

Levitan's attorney told the court that a wrecker for the building, located in West Broadway, South Boston, had been hired, but that a family of seven living in the four-story brick structure refused to move because they had no place else to go. The city building department had condemned the building as unsafe last July when the rear walls began to bulge.

Apropos to the case, Judge Adlow recalled that when he was a young lawyer with offices in Pemberton sq. he and his fellow-barristers were asked to move because the building was to be torn down.

"We refused," said His Honor, "but they tore down the building almost from under us. We moved."

Bradford Orders Airport Gas Fees

Gov. Bradford ordered all petroleum firms doing business at Logan airport today to arrange with Public Works Comr. William H. Buracker for payments of fees for the privilege of selling gasoline or remove their property and personel from the premises.

In a letter to Buracker, he asked him to notify the concerns and to give each of them a specified period in which to reach an agreement for a temporary basis of payment. Permanent fees, he said, could be arranged on completion of present cost and revenue studies.

The Governor's action came after the Mass. Federation of Taxpayer' Ass'ns had complained taxpayers had lost hundreds of thousands of dollars in recent years because of failure by the Commonwealth to levy such fees.

2 Voting Machines Demonstrated

Two voting machines were being demonstrated before the Election Commission today to aid its choice of one of them for the 500 additional such devices to be purchased for the city.

The machines are manufactured by the Shoup Voting Machine Co. and the Automatic Voting Machine Co. The former is represented by former Maine Gov. Louis E. Brann and ex-State Auditor Francis X. Hurley.

The Shoup machine was ordered by Mayor Curley last year, Brann pointed out, after an MIT report stated it was superior to the Automatic machine.

$50 Tax on Pinball Machines Urged

A bill o place a $50 annual Sate tax on every pinball machine in the Commonwealth was filed in the House today by Rep. Stanley Borsa, Springfield, who labeled the machines "one-armed bandits bleeding grammar and high school students of their nickels."

The bill provides for collection of the tax by individual cities and towns and retention by them for the reduction of real estate taxes. Borsa estimates the tax would yield $5,000,000 a year and pointed out the Federal government now collects $100 a year for each machine.

Quincy Bank Aide Testifies Wife, Sailor Held N.Y. Trysts

Howard Whittier Eldridge, Arborway dr., Braintree, attached to the Granite Trust Co., Quincy, testified in Dedham Probate Court today that his wife, Mrs. Madeline A. Eldridge, Braintree, kept week-end New York rendezvous with a sailor.

Eldridge, so nof Curtis Eldridge, Barnstable County deputy sheriff, is seeking a divorce on ground of cruel and abusive treatment that caused him to lose weight and become nervous. Mrs. Eldridge has filed a cross-libey for divorce on the same grounds. Both are seeking custody of a 4-year-old daughter, Susan, now with Eldridge's parents in Brewster.

In support of his charge that his wife had spent week-ends with the sailor, Eldridge produced a set of service identification tags, bearing the name and service number of the man. He said he found the "dog-tags" in his wife's jewel box.

She herself told him of the sailor, he testified, when he questioned her about her week-end absences.

Their marital difficulties began, he went on, when she took employment at a restaurant in December, 1946, and started to come home drunk at 5 and 6 a. m.

Her week-end trips would be made without prior notice, Eldridge said, and the first he would know about them was when he would come home to find his daughter in the care of a 12-year-old girl.

She left him last May, he stated, after telling him she was no longer interested in making a home for him or the child. Earlier, he said, she had once broken a glass and threatened to cut his throat and her own.

"Once she told me that if I touched the car, I wouldn't live until morning" he testified, adding that she took the car with her when she finally left him.

MAN FOUND IN CHARLES

The body of Thomas E. Casey, 61, formerly of Dedham, was found floating in the Charles river there, today, near Havey Beach. His son, Edward Casey of Jamaica Plain, said his father's whereabouts had been unknown to him for a long time.

Elizabeth May Be Made a Duchess

LONDON, Nov. 10 (INS)—A columnist writing in London's News of the World predicted today King George VI might make Princess Elizabeth a duchess in her own right and confer a dukedom upon her fiance, Lt. Philip Mountbatten.

According to the writer, the King will make a decision within a few days.

The writer said Mountbatten might be named Duke of Edinburgh on the eve of the couple's wedding, Nov. 20.

The title of duchess conferred on the princess would be a counterpart of the title "Prince of Wales" which is conferred on a direct male heir to the throne.

Gunshot Wound in Neck Fatal to Oxford Navy Vet

OXFORD, Nov. 10—Police today awaited the report of Medical Examiner Dr. John C. Ward on the death of Valmore Lamoreau, 22, of Savoy Crossing, who was found in his home with a gunshot wound in the neck.

Rushed to the Worcester City Hospital, he was pronounced dead on arrival. Married and father of two children, Lamoreau was discharged from the Navy only a month ago.

Acts AT ONCE to Relieve and 'Loosen'

CROUPY NIGHT COUGHING

(CAUSED BY COLDS)

Mothers are delighted the way the first spoonfuls of PERTUSSIN often bring prompt relief from such croupy coughing.

And PERTUSSIN is so pleasant and safe for kiddies. It's entirely free from chloroform, creosote and narcotics. No wonder so many Doctors prescribed it for years for bad coughs due to colds.

PERTUSSIN(R) acts at once. It not only relieves coughing but it actually 'loosens up tickling phlegm' and makes it easier to 'raise'. Also mighty effective for adults.

50,000 Poll Tax Bills Sent in Vain

About 50,000 of the first 100,000 warrant demands for the payment of 1946 poll taxes sent out last week, City Collector Daniel J. Donovan said today, are expected to be returned by the post office because addresses have moved without leaving forwarding instructions.

In Ward 3, 1400 of 2000 demands have already been returned for that reason. Almost 20 per cent of the city's population moves every year, Donovan explained, half of them from apartments, lodging houses and hotels.

One result of the publicity attending the city's severe method of attempting to collect the taxes, the city collector said, is a rush by residents to pay up their 1947 poll tax.

Now that the New Look is de rigeur for women one wonders what, if anything, can be done to make male attire a little less unbecoming. My guess is, unfortunately, that very little can be done so long as 75% of the men's wear in this country is bought by women. But, since all the evidence I have seems to indicate that women are here to stay, I'd like to make a few suggestions to them on how men's clothes should fit to better guide them in their next shopping spree. Obviously this is a large subject but I'll discuss it only in five particulars—size, collar height, jacket length, sleeve length and trouser length. If a suit fits in these five spots your Daddy (plain or sugar) rates top honors sartorially and no lodge will reject him. If Sugar can't pass this test, run, rush or roll to 25 State Street and see the Thief. He's pretty busy, these days, explaining how his write up in November "Fortune" came about but he can be diverted by any substantial show of legal tender.

But let's take number one—Size. I, and many others better qualified, have stated this before. Suits are generally bought too small for either comfort or style. And the worst offenders are the corpulent. The next time you buy the boy friend a suit that he fills out so well there isn't a ripple in it send it posthaste to Goodyear. They are running short of inner tubes.

Secondly, see to it that the suit collar does not hide your man's linen entirely. Good fit here means snug fit but beware too high a collar. The way many men dress today there is no telling, from the rear, whether a shirt is being worn or not.

Thirdly, be sure the jacket is long enough. By "long enough" I don't mean as long as a bandleader's. I mean long enough to hide completely that very uninteresting section half way between a man's neck and ankles.

Fourth, watch sleeve lengths carefully. Here again four out of five men wear theirs too long. The idea seems to be that a sleeve should cover half the hand. It shouldn't. It should just reach the wrist and, as with the jacket collar, allow a little linen to show.

And last, watch trouser lengths and be different. Almost nobody bothers with this detail. Now, trouser lengths should vary with the type of suit (tuxedo and full dress trousers are worn longer than business suits) but, generally speaking, the cuffs of the latter should just hit the instep. Too many men still wear trousers so long that one wonders if another important item of apparel hasn't been entirely forgotten.

South's Textile Mills Agree to Pay Raise

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (INS)—The Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) announced it has won a nine per cent pay increase, amounting to $19,000,000 a year, for 125,000 southern cotton textile workers.

This is the fourth raise for this group of workers since V-J Day, the union said.

LUZON COUNTS STORM LOSS

MANILA, Nov. 10 (AP)—Northeastern Luzon apparently was the heaviest sufferer in the week end typhoon, which inflicted at least $2,000,000 damage to homes and crops.

DOUBTFUL VICTORY

READING, Pa., Nov. 10 (AP)—Joseph Yeman, 46, literally hit the ceiling during a game of darts and wound up in the hospital.

Yeman told hospital attendants he was playing darts in the basement of his home when his team suddenly went into the lead. Overjoyed, he leaped into the air and struck his head on the ceiling, he explained.

He suffered a possible skull fracture and head lacerations, the hospital reported.

Vets Carry Armistice Day Message to Hub Schools

The three-day Armistice Day celebration in Boston, which began with solemn Sunday memorial services in the churches, continued today with special exercises in the schools and will be climaxed tomorrow with the annual American Legion-sponsored parade.

In many of the schools, teachers who are veterans were featured speakers, with military officers and cadets participating in the exercises. Local commanders of the several veterans' organizations gave the addresses in most of the elementary schools.

Tonight's Armistice Eve social calendar is crowded with banquets and balls arranged by veterans groups.

High ranking representatives of the Army and Navy will join with the Crosscup-Pishon Post, A. L., at its annual celebrations at Patten's restaurant at which tribute will be paid to the Marine Corps on its 172nd birthday.

The post tribute will be paid by Com. Ernest Hoftyzer through Maj. Everett Pope of Braintree, USMCR, one of the 27 living Marines who won the Congressional Medal of Honor in World War II.

MASS BY BISHOP WRIGHT

Tomorrow Bishop John J. Wright will preside at the memorial mass in Mission Church, Roxbury at 9 a. m., sponsored by the Holy Family-Holy Name Society. Rev. Thomas Fallon, C. SS. R., spiritual director of the society and chaplain of Mission Hill Post, A. L., will be celebrant. The Little Singers of Paris, under the direction of L'Abbe Maillet, will sing at the mass and communion breakfast.

Highlight of the day's program will be the annual military parade, with units of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Air Forces in the line of march, together with the National Guard and veterans' organizations.

BALDNESS OR HAIR?

YOU Can make the CHOICE!
John Kazman Chose HAIR

BALDNESS is a matter of choice. Continue to neglect your scalp and you choose baldness. Give it proper attention—as did John Kazman (pictured above) and you choose hair. Mr. Kazman's hair loss resulted from a serious case of alopecia areata. Within four months after he was accepted for Thomas treatment his bald spot was completely filled in with strong new hair.

Perhaps the condition which is causing your loss of hair may not be as serious as was Mr. Kazman's. Regardless as to the cause, it will surely lead you to baldness unless you promptly take steps to correct it. Thomas treatment can help you, too—just as it helped Mr. Kazman—to overcome dandruff, stop abnormal hair fall and promote hair growth on thin and bald spots. Call today for a free scalp examination. Choose hair—not baldness! Scalp examination, consultation, and treatments are always given in private.

How to cure the shivers in one easy lesson!

Hike into your Bond store. Tell 'em you want a husky, warm deep-pile coat—just like this one. And you're all set, Mister—ready for anything the weatherman dishes up. Pure wool fleece—thick, deep-pile fleece—does the trick. We've had it woven on a soft cotton back, for extra comfort and extra wear. And we've lined the whole job with rich rayon, for extra luxury. Sound swell? Yes—and it's just as easy to take. One look at Bond's sweet-and-low price will tell you why these coats vanish as fast as we can get them. So hurry—please! Camel-tone, blue or brown, all sizes.

Dillinger Crime Trail Unfolded

John Dillinger's criminal career started in 1924, when he and a friend slugged a grocer. It ended abruptly 10 years later, when he went to the movies with a mysterious "woman in red."

This woman of mystery—her name was Anna Sage—died recently in Romania, but she will long be remembered as the one who "put the finger" on one of America's most dangerous and notorious criminals.

In a three-article series, "Dillinger and the Woman in Red," Peter Levins will tell the action-packed story of the one-time public enemy and the woman who turned him in. The series will begin in next Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Cavite Campaign Shooting Results in Army Control

MANILA, Nov. 10 (AP)—President Manuel Roxas today put the entire province of Cavite under army control after the mayor of the mountain town of Bailen was seriously wounded by the chief of police in another outbreak of pre-election gunplay.

Political shootings have accounted for more than 30 lives in the campaigning which ends tonight.

Polygamist Sent To State Hospital

Doctors at the Mattapan State Hospital will observe Charles M. Chaffee, 26, of Warren st., Charlestown, for the next 35 days in an endeavor to learn why he married two women.

Judge Allen G. Buttrick of superior court committed Chaffee after he pleaded guilty to polyamy.

Wife No. 2, Mrs. Letitia Williams Chaffee, was a bride of only eight weeks when Wife No. 1, Mrs. Jeanette Plotkin Chaffee, 28, of Lowell, had Chaffee arrested for nonsupport here.

According to police, the second Mrs. Chaffee was not home when he was picked up but she learned later at the station house he had been arrested for nonsupport, and demanded to know who had charged him with that—inasmuch as she hadn't.

Police told her about the first Mrs. Chaffee, who had married him in 1945.

250 More B-29s For Active Duty

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP) —The Air Force said today 250 B-29 bombers are being withdrawn from storage to add to the active air defense screen of the United States.

An air defense program calling for 55 complete air groups of bombers and fighters, plus 15 skeleton groups, was announced some months ago. Currently the Air Force has 32 groups ready and is reconditioning B-29's from storage areas scattered around the country. An official told a reporter that about 100 will be taken from Pyote Field, Texas.

A few bomber pilots are being recalled to fly the B-29's, he said, but added the Air Force has enough pilots on active duty already to make a large scale recall unnecessary.

Mystery Plague Takes Heavy Toll In Iran

Described only as a pulmonary pestilence, the plague broke out over an 80-mile area. Medical authorities said this is the first time this illness has appeared in living memory.

House Built for Vet Family in 2 Days

OMAHA, Nov. 10 (AP)—Today was moving day for the Lewis Etherington family, who had been living in a patched Army tent until volunteers joined to provide them with a new home.

Etherington is in the Veterans' Hospital in Lincoln, Neb., but his wife and four children were given temporary quarters in a hotel while the two-day building project was completed.

The gift home was begun when an anonymous donor paid off the $300 debt on the Etherington's lot. Contractor Ted Metcalfe offered to help build a frame house. Labor unions and materials firms joined in and a comfortable 20 by 30-foot dwelling, complete with plumbing, an oil-type space heater, and electricity was fashioned from a prefabricated construction office.

U. S. Girl Back Home Tells Of Red Labor Camp Escape

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (INS)—An American Girl, who spent "three years of nightmare" in a Russian labor camp, came back to America today and was greeted by so many people anxious to help her that she broke down in tears.

The distraught girl, so overwhelmed by her welcome that she could hardly speak, is Miss Irma Mohaupt, 22, a native-born American. She was taken by her parents to Yugoslavia when she was 6 and was caught there by the war.

After her father was shot by Tito's partisans and the Russians took over Yugoslavia, Irma, despite her American citizenship, was packed off to a Soviet labor camp in the Ukraine, where for three years she was forced to work in a Russian factory.

She finally managed to get word to the American consul in Munich, and repatriation proceedings were begun, but the Russians refused to give her up. She said today:

"The Russians work people so hard they don't have time to die."

She escaped and, as she said, "walking by night and hiding by day," eventually made her way to the American zone in Germany, where her troubles ended.

When she came in today, among the 867 passengers on the Marine Flasher, she was met by an array of relatives. Also present was the secretary of Rep. Wilham Hess of Ohio who took an interest in the girl's case.

The completely unnerved girl said she couldn't decide just where to go or what kind offer to accept.

So immigration authorities, after clearing her as an American citizen, sent her to the Travelers Aid Society office to compose herself.

In a brief, typewritten statement, Miss Mohaupt said:

"I am sorry I can say no more until I have given my story to the State Department. I hope everybody understands."

Our years of experience give you the utmost in quality and service—plus unsurpassed values.

Marshall

of Europe's dire plight on Russia. He accused the Soviet Union of dominating countries refusing to join in the Marshall plan.

He asserted that developments in those countries "bear the unmistakable imprint of an alien hand." He emphasized that the western allies have worked energetically for European recovery and added:

"It is now clear that only one power, the Soviet Union, does not, for its own reasons, share this aim."

PLEDGES CHINA AID

Marshall defined the present division in Europe as along that line which separated the Anglo-American and Russian armies when the war ended.

In presenting his plea for winter help to western Europe, Marshall also promised early recommendations on aid for the Nationalist government of China.

He estimated cost of the Marshall Plan for the first 15 months of its life at slightly less than $7,500,000,000, adding that he would recommend this amount to President Truman.

U. S. RULE OVER FUNDS

He left up to Congress the type of administrative agency to implement the long-range recovery program but stressed that "able and efficient United States administration" must manage the funds made available by Congress.

In breaking down his estimates for interim aid, Marshall allotted Austria $42,000,000, France $328,000,000, and Italy $227,000,000. Previous estimates placed the interim aid program at $642,000,000.

He declared:

"The automatic success of the program cannot be guaranteed. The imponderables are many. The risks are real. They are, however, risks which have been carefully calculated, and I believe the chances of success are good.

"INSPIRING CHALLENGE"

"We must not fail to meet this inspiring challenge. We must not permit the free community of Europe to be extinguished.

"Should this occur, it would be a tragedy for the world . . . One of our important freedoms —freedom of choice in both domestic and foreign affairs would be drastically curtailed."

Marshall proposed a system of loans and grants.

He said goods which will be quickly consumed, such as food, fertilizer fuel and certain "indispensable items" of capital equipment should be financed through direct grants.

Loans would cover imports of capital equipment and raw materials which will directly produce the means of repayment.

THE MARINES' BIRTHDAY

THE UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS, which has been in the thick of every military conflict in which the American people had a stake and is often the first to get in and usually where the fighting is toughest, takes a birthday bow before the American people today and the occasion is a proper one for an enthusiastic show of the great pride and warm affection in which the country holds this grand organization.

The Continental Congress established the Marine Corps on November 10, 1775, and it is thus 172 years old today, older indeed than the American Republic in the service of which it had shed blood before the independence of the nation was formally declared.

The Boston Tea Party, which started many Americans to thinking seriously about independence for the first time, was held less than two years before the Marine Corps was founded.

FIVE YEARS AGO, when the Hearst newspapers gave editorial recognition to the birthday of the Marines, they were still at that grim business.

At that time, the Marines had just gone ashore on Guadalcanal.

The beaches of that festered island were strewn with their dead.

The survivors of the first waves were only holding what they had gained because that is the way the Marines keep faith with their dead and their country.

The American people did not know then HOW the Marines could possibly hold out against the tremendous odds confronting them in the first major battle for the Solomons, but they knew the Marines WOULD hold out.

The editorial in the Hearst newspapers voiced the viewpoint of the American people in this manner, saying of the embattled Marine force:

"It is OUTNUMBERED by the Japanese.

"It is less adequately SUPPLIED than the Japanese.

"Nevertheless there is justifiable confidence, and certainly a hopeful expectation, that the Marines will be able to hold Guadalcanal.

"This is principally because the United States Marines nearly always DO hold difficult and important positions, regardless of hazards and odds.

"If they do not hold their positions, they usually die TRYING.

"They are the toughest, hardest fighting men in the world."

THE MARINES LIVED UP to that expression of faith at Guadalcanal, and at Tarawa later, and on Saipan and Guam and Iwo Jima and Okinawa and all the bloody and vital beaches of the Pacific War.

Every American war has been won in some substantial and critical part by the United States Marines.

Every American citizen owes to the United States Marines in an essential and inestimable degree the peace that has been won for him and the freedom that has been assured to him.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, LEATHERNECK!

(To the U. S. Marine Corps, Born Nov. 10, 1775)

There's a brave, seagoing soldier
With a military mien
Who's one hundred and seventy-two today . . .
The United States Marine!

Up and down the ocean's highway
In far distant lands and seas
He has hurled our starry banner . . .
Watched her flutter in the breeze!

From the Halls of Montezuma
To the shores of Tripoli . . .
From Wake Island to Tarawa
And the far-off Coral Sea!

Getting stronger with each battle,
Of our wars he's had a peck . . .
He's a rootin', shootin' devil-dog,
This salty leatherneck!

So here's to him on his birthday,
Old in strife but young of heart . . .
Credit to his flag and country
He's a breed that's set apart!

Love—what a volume in a word,
An ocean in a tear,
A seventh heaven in a glance,
A whirlwind in a sigh,
The lightning in a touch,
A millennium in a moment.
TUPPER.

HAS THE GIRL you married shown signs of being depressed lately? Is she moaning the blues? Do you know what the trouble is? It may be the color of the wallpaper at your house. For example, blue colored walls make some people feel blue. Needed to cheer them up is a tint of red, peach or natural orange. Then there should be red and orange pictures, ceramics, vases, sculptures, etc., scattered around. However, don't get too much red coloring about the house. This has a tendency to bring the wolf out in a woman. When women are wolfish they alternate between being affectionate and throwing things. So if you overdo the red coloring you will never know when you come home whether your wife is going to kiss you or throw a chair at you. So says a color psychology expert.

VEGETARIANS: "So, Fred Allen has become a vegetarian," writes a Californian. "This depresses me. Can't you urge him to stick to a sensible diet? Why give up meat? What is meat, anyway, but just concentrated grass? It supplies us with nourishment in a small helping. We do not need bulk in eating it. Bulk is bad. Vegetarians must eat an excessive amount of bulk to secure nourishment, or eat between meals. I have made a study of vegetarians. As a rule they are extremely irritable, superficial in thinking, taking a half truth and zooming off into the stratosphere with it."

Fred Allen

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q. I drove the three hundred and seventy-eight mile trip from Muskegon Heights, Mich., to Detroit, twice a month to see my girl. What do you think of that? A. Nothing unusual. If you had walked both ways it would have been. But what is unusual about a three hundred and seventy-eight mile auto trip to see the woman you love? I know fellows who drive that far four times a week to see horses. Q. Our son is 17 years old and just can't make up his mind what career he wants to follow. How about this? A. Give the lad a chance. He's just a kid. Let him take a long look at the career situation. A lot of misfits have resulted from being hurried in a choice of career.

TWINS: "So, if married to a man of Irish birth or descent a woman is very likely to give birth to twins. Says you," writes a Pittsburgher. "I am married to an Irishman named Mahoney. We have three children. All single births. Explain that." Be patient, lady. You're a young woman yet. The Mahoney twins will no doubt arrive in time.

JUMPERS: The world's high jump at recognized track and field meets is six feet, eleven inches. Members of the Watussi tribe, Belgian Congo, have jumped as high as eight feet, five inches. The tribal costume for Watussi males features a long skirt that trails the ground. The Watussi jumpers wear this garment when jumping to record-breaking heights. Show this to your wife if she complains that long skirts hinder freedom of action.

MICKEY: Have you noticed that girls named "Mickey" are usually a little wild? In a nice way, of course. It takes a firm man of strong character to break a girl named "Mickey" into matrimonial harness. However, once trained the "Mickey" girls make excellent wives and wonderful mothers.

PLEASE NOTE: Mrs. James D. Blakely, Gardena, Cal., became a grandmother at the age of 30. Sorry I haven't a snapshot of Mrs. Blakely. She's probably quite an "oomph girl." Women who become grandmothers early in life usually are.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: A business firm slogan which appeals to me is: "Old customers send us six of every ten new customers" . . . What is a super market? According to the Super Market Institute it is "a self-service food store grossing over $250,000 annually" . . . "Have you another reader in Tombstone, Ariz?" asks a resident of the historic far West town. Not that I know of. But I have a reader who was born on Toughnut st., Tombstone, Ariz. She lives in Santa Monica, now.

SIDELIGHTS: "Did you know my father Dr. Frank Crane, the inspirational writer?" asks James Lyons Crane, 2nd. Indeed I did. Very well. Worked on the same paper with him, the old New York Globe . . . A Redwood, Cal., woman owns one hundred and fifty French poodles. How I would like to see all those poodles romping around together. The French poodle is the clown of the canine world. Always good for a laugh. Has a great sense of humor.

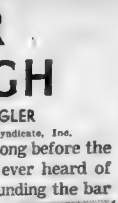
"Two—'WAY up front!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Long before the Hollywood ignoranti ever heard of the Bill of Rights, I was pounding the bar and hollering that Congress often heard false witness against citizens who were not merely innocent but not even accused.



Westbrook Pegler

That was long before Eleanor the Great took fear at the recent mild proceedings of the Thomas Committee on Un-American Activities against Hollywood groups.

It was long before Paul McNutt, now an attorney in private practice, took occasion to protest.

It was, in fact, during a time when she and McNutt were members of the Administration whose method of dealing with political opponents was to smear them with innuendos and deny them a chance to answer.

MANY INSTANCES of this have sprung to mind lately in answer to their pietistical clamor, but my choice was the publication of the income tax returns of the late President Roosevelt's opponents and the adamant refusal of the Democrats to permit any examination of his, or hers or the Old Lady's or Elliott's.

Ham Fish, then a Congressman, did put up a fight and they finally did throw Jimmy's return on the table, but the committee flatly told Ham that anyone who opened his mouth about the tax returns of the Roosevelts would be thrown out of the hearings.

Allen Treadway, a stubborn Yankee from Massachusetts, did put up a yell for experts to examine Jimmy's returns as critically as others had been examined, but the rubber stamp majority said nothing doing.

BUT FOR THAT, we might have learned that Franklin D. Roosevelt's great humane venture at Warm Springs was a business proposition and that he had to be persuaded by John J. Raskob to drop it and come out of retirement to run for Governor of New York in 1928.

Maybe it isn't quite right to prowl through a man's private returns which by law are deemed to be exquisitely intimate, but it was just as right to examine those of the Roosevelt family as any other man's.

I heard no protest from Mrs. Roosevelt or McNutt about the incredibly cynical conduct of Hugo Black, then a Senator but soon to be given a seat on the Supreme Court, when he was running an investigation for Roosevelt, himself.

Not a word did we hear from her or McNutt, when Ham Fish led Jimmy Roosevelt by the hand into the office of Walter Gifford, the president of the American Telephone and Telegraph, and told Gifford that it would be wise business policy to give Jimmy some of A. T. and T.'s insurance business.

"I said to Gifford, 'You know who this is, don't you?'" Ham Fish said to me some years later. The guy is still adolescent. He has no more sense of right and wrong than a Roosevelt.

"Maybe I shouldn't have said that," Ham said. "Anyway I did. I said, 'You know who this is, don't you?' And he said 'yes', and I said, 'Well, it is a good thing to have a friend at court.'"

And Gifford said the insurance would be handled in a businesslike way, as usual, and the next thing Mr. Gifford and the A. T. and T. knew, they were going through the sausage-grinder in one of those Congressional inquiries that Mrs. R. now deplores so virtuously. I didn't hear her deplore that one.

INASMUCH AS Ham Fish is a Republican it may seem strange that he brought the eaglet of the dynasty around to see a prospective victim so rich in economic juices. Ham just said he took this interest in Jimmy because they were both Harvard men.

It may be news to many of us that it is possible for a Congressional committee to gum things up deliberately so as to protect the persons under investigation.

But it isn't any news to Mrs. R., because that is exactly what the Ways and Means Committee did in the investigation of the case in which the late President induced John Hartford to give up $200,000. That, in my opinion, was the most disgraceful act of its kind in all our history and the Democratic Ways and Means Committee should have known it.

ANOTHER POSSIBLE REASON for Mrs. Roosevelt's extreme sensitiveness in the matter of the Communist expose is that she was caught in the act of butting into a State Department case to swing a favor for Hanns Eisler, now under arrest on deportation charges, and a brother of Gerhard Eisler. That came out only a few weeks ago.

I was against this abuse of the individual by Congressional committees back in the days when the New Dealers loved it. I still oppose it in principle, but in the present occasion it is by far the inferior evil.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, NOV. 10, 1947

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (INS)—Just before Bill Dozier and Joan Fontaine took off for New York, Bill signed Frederic March and Florence Eldridge to star in "The Judge's Wife," starting two weeks after they finish "Another Part of the Forest" at Universal-International.

Florence Eldridge

This is the longest stint the Marches have spent in Hollywood since Freddie was a Paramount star. They are far from Hollywood-minded. Only last week March gave out an interview in which he said they would never get stuck out there again.

But "The Judge's Wife," by Ernst Lothar, is strong meat—the type of drama the Marches go in for. It's about a judge who believes there are no extenuating circumstances for crime. When he finds his wife is incurably ill, he murders her and sets about getting himself convicted in spite of a sympathetic jury.

The same team that produced and directed "Another Part of the Forest," Jerry Bresler and Michael Gordon, take over the "Judge."

PAUL DOUGLAS is reading the script of Babe Ruth's life, and if he likes it he'll accept. He would be wonderful for the part. He looks not unlike the Bambino in the days when he was hale and husky.

Paul is still wishfully thinking about "Born Yesterday."

He and Virginia Field have been doing some very serious talking, so don't be surprised if they reconcile.

MY FRIEND ANITA LOOS will not sell her play, "Happy Birthday," for a few weeks at least. She has had plenty of offers but she is going to do a rewrite job on the motion picture adaptation. Seems the Johnston office does not like all the action taking place in a barroom.

If you phone Anita, you are apt to get a greeting from her in Spanish. She is going to South America with her play and is studying Spanish like crazy.

CHATTER IN NEW YORK: The George Sanders-Zsa Zsa Hilton romance is hotter than the desert sand. There is talk it may even mean marriage for the fascinating George and his girl friend.

Saw George and the redhaired, unpredictable lady at the Stork having a little supper for two. On the same night Greer Garson sat at a nearby table with George Kaufman. That silly rumor that Greer is secretly seeing George Sanders is just that—rumor. Greer is out every night but never with Sanders. The night after she and George Kaufman dined, Wynn Rocamora escorted her to the theater.

Countess Di Frasso, who complained so bitterly that the American income tax took all her money, is back in business in Italy again. She has got the money back that was confiscated during the war and is now financing motion picture companies. Dorothy has always been interested in motion pictures, and now she is the boss of two companies.

Elsa Maxwell, who saw her in Italy, says Dorothy is happier than she has been in years, and right in her element. Well, Dorothy wasn't very happy in either New York or Hollywood.

There's a lot of whispering in New York theatrical and movie circles that Jean and Charlie Feldman will reconcile. They are out together night after night with nothing or little said about the photographer Jean was supposed to marry.

Jean has an assignment to photograph the various universities. She leaves next week with her camera to take pictures of Duke University.

Bobby Jordan, who a few weeks ago was in an elevator in a New York hotel when it fell 10 stories, is being operated on early Monday morning.

Bobby is one of the Dead End Kids. He hasn't been out of the hospital since he was hurt. He tells me the doctor who is operating on him took care of him when he was in service, and assures him he will be all right.

So help me, pal—and I mean you, George—I will never again say somebody is looking for an unknown. I have been bombarded by telephone calls, letters and photographs from young hopefuls who feel they are the very one George is looking for.

Please, girls, do not get in touch with me—contact George Pal in Hollywood.

WHEN Miriam Hopkins' husband, Ray Brock, left last week for Europe, it marked the final split between them. Brock goes to France and the Balkans on a writing stint.

When Miriam rented her house to the James Masons, she and Brock moved out and went their separate ways.

By the way, Mason's movie, "Odd Man Out," is advertised in France as "Old Man Out," while "Duel in the Sun" is called "Lust in the Dust."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD AND NEW YORK: Carl Leserman just beat his daughter to the altar when he married the ex-Mrs. Lou Holtz last week. Barbara Leserman marries Arthur Kramer, son of a wealthy apartment house owner.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor arrive here next week. They couldn't get their usual suite because 350 rooms at the Waldorf Astoria are filled with delegates. So Mrs. Lucius Boomer handed over her suite.

Bob Topping is extremely bitter toward Arline Judge, to whom he was married less than six months. He has moved to a hotel and isn't even seeing his pals. His close friend, Bruce Cabot, has been in Detroit with the Maharaja of Cooch-Behar buying cars and machinery.

Helen Walker and Director "Lucky" Humberstone are heading for a Mexican marriage when he finishes his picture at 20th. Helen is the girl who figured so tragically in the auto accident where a GI hitch-hiker was killed.

Helen Walker

If the Jack Carsons aren't on the verge of reconciling in Hollywood, they certainly have the natives fooled. Jack dines with his family more and more frequently.

Mrs. Burt Lancaster is standing by for a quick trip to St. John Hospital in Santa Monica. Their baby is expected momentarily. It it's a boy they'll name him William after Burt's brother. If it's a girl she'll be Susan.

Mimi Forsythe Bogeaus, "ex" of Ben Bogeaus, marries James P. Turner in Santa Barbara on Nov. 23.

Come to think of it, Annabella gets in tomorrow and spends a week here before heading for Hollywood.

Hoagy Carmichael had a busy week-end. His picture, "Night Song," was previewed, a story broke on him in a national mag, and he resumed his radio program today.

My Boston

By Alan Frazer

RODOLPHE PEPIN, FAMOUS ORGANIST AND DIRECTOR of the Mission Church choir, is rounding up choir members today to sing at tonight's invitation opening of the Astor Theater, Boston's newest, on the site of the old Tremont . . . RKO Radio Pictures scored a beat in getting the Mission Church choir to introduce "The Fugitive." Pepin was given very short notice but told us he would be on hand with at least 42 singers, 12 men and 30 boys . . . They will sing Arcadelt's "Ave Maria." As they finish, the lights will dim and the screen will begin unfolding the story of a priest—the fugitive—and a beautiful woman who was torn between good and bad . . . Church dignitaries have already pre-viewed screenings of the film . . . The Tremont has been completely remodeled, except for the walls alone. There has been a theater on the site since 1796. The Astor is the most beautiful, by modern standards.

A STATE Civil Service scandal is about to break. Director Thomas J. Greehan has been asked to cancel an examination recently given for superintendent, bureau of sewers, in Worcester . . . If Greehan or his superiors, the Civil Service Commission, decline to do so, the Superior Court will be asked to issue an injunction, forbidding them to certify a list of eligibles for the position . . . Some of those who took the exam claim that other contestants put identifying marks on their papers, so that the examiners could not help knowing who they were . . . No charge of collusion has been made against the examiners. But the complainants want an investigation, and a new exam.

"BILL" SCHARTON, who gets a 75th birthday testimonial at the Copley Plaza Saturday night, lays claim to 28 acquittals in 38 first degree murder cases . . . Life's minor ambitions: To try one of those new razors—"no electricity, no brush, no soap or cream, no stropping, no blade!" . . . Gretchen Merrill, the big-eyed little Brookline fancy skater who trains on sir-loin steak, is getting ready to take off for the Olympics at St. Moritz . . . You can get a sleeping berth on a coast-to-coast plane now, but it'll cost you $90 on top of the fare . . . That eclipse Wednesday afternoon will be only one per cent in Boston, so don't strain your eyes . . . Virginia Mayo, who has the lead opposite Danny Kaye in "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," arrives in Boston this midnight, for two days. The film opens Thanksgiving. Virginia was just a stooge in one of those two-man horse routines when Sam Goldwyn spied her.

IF YOU failed to see "Trial Honeymoon" when it was here, forget it. It folded after one week on Broadway . . . But they're selling tickets 16 weeks ahead for "The Inspector Calls," with Thomas Mitchell, which our discerning Boston critics acclaimed . . . "Eastward in Eden" moves to Broadway this week-end for an opening next Tuesday. And "Mourning Becomes Electra," the Gene O'Neill opus, is in celluloid in New York, under Theater Guild sponsorship . . . Still on the theater: "The Voice of the Turtle" hits its 1500th performance Thursday. "Allegro" is headed for Broadway records—and at a $6 top.

SOME OF Rep. Michael J. Skerry's friends voted Republican in the Medford election and helped defeat John C. Carr, who grabbed the Democratic nomination from Skerry. But Skerry himself had no part in it. And a good thing that is for the peace-loving folks on Burnside rd., where Mike lives just across the street from John . . . Lee Whitney, who managed the Kenmore Hotel in the 30's, is with the British Communications Corp. and writes to Touraine-owner Clarence Hyde from Stanmore, Middlesex, Eng. Lee claims Ted Bishop, the golf-great, was going to send him two clocks which have never shown up. But to Ted and all, he sends his best . . . Kathleen Ryan, vote-getter extraordinary, writes us she is 27, not 24 as we stated. Guess there's no pleasing these young women.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago, Secretary of State Fred Cook's wife gave him two bronze elephants for his desk at the State House. Still holding office (longer than any other secretary of state in the country), he has never had to clean the elephants off his desk, but has added 48 others, the gifts of friends and admirers . . . Oldtimers say the collection reminds them of the hundreds that Tom Lawson, the financial wizard, kept in his offices at the late, lamented Young's Hotel. One of Tom's weighed half a ton, and necessitated reinforcing the floor . . . Frankie Vigneau, once Guy Lombardo's star pianist, is teaching music in Hingham and has his own orchestra . . . "We Wish We Had It But We Ain't," by Al and Gladys Patch of the Riverway, is getting a plug in local nightspots and on the air.

MAYBE YOU don't realize that New England's population has increased at a faster rate than the nation's during the 1940's. That hasn't happened in any previous decade since the 1790's . . . Sally Keith, who tosses a mean tassel, won't give up Room 210 at the Crawford House because she remembers her starting salary, $210 a week. That was eight years ago. Since then, her salary has burgeoned to just short of four figures, and Room 210 has become a suite, luxuriously furnished . . . Angelo Lippi, once managing director of the Somerset and maitre d'hotel at the Touraine and Cocoanut Grove, is around town again after being laid up for more than five years with arthritis.

TRIAL of David Aransky and others, in the Camp Edwards war surplus case, may not take place in Federal court until February. The FBI is still working on the case, which has ramifications in the Veterans Administration — serious ones, too . . . The Air Line Pilots Ass'n informs me that commercial pilots favor ILS (instrument landing system) by 50 to one over GCA (ground control approach), in spite of all the plugging the latter has received.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—My senior naval aide, Machinist's Mate Michelangelo Rembrandt Kelly, came in today and said he had a couple of interesting questions to propound anent President Truman's call for a special session of Congress.

Machinist's Mate Kelly did not actually use the word "anent" because he thinks anent is a busy little insect, as in having anents in your pents. But from long practice I was able to get a rough idea what he was saying.

"Take for instance," began Mr. Kelly, who is a great for instance-taker, "how can the President call a special session when the first session has not adjourned?"

"What do you mean it hasn't adjourned?" I demanded. "Where do you think Congress has been all this time?"

"The way I get it, it ain't adjourned," said Mr. Kelly. "It is merely recessed. There is a difference they tell me, like when we were in school they rung the bell for recess but we knew we had to come back and that's the way it is with Congress except that they didn't play catch during recess or chase the girls around the yard, at least I hope not."

"That is quite a sentence," I murmured. "But what is your question again?"

"Well, if the first session ain't adjourned, only recessed, and they call the special session when the first one ain't adjourned, does this mean the special session will be adjourned before the first session or will Congress have to meet a day early to adjourn the first session before the special session can start?"

"Some," I muttered dazedly, "like it hot, some like it cold, and some like it in the pot nine days old. Now that we have settled that to our mutual satisfaction what is your other question?"

-:-

"It is about expense accounts," said Mr. Kelly, "and thanks for explaining everything so nice and clear. How are the Congressmen going to put the expenses of coming here for the special session on their swindle sheets?"

"Some say one thing, some say another," I replied. "What do you say?"

"I knew I could get you to see it my way," said Mr. Kelly. "The law says a Congressman is allowed 20 cents a mile for one round trip a year between Washington and his home, which the money is provided for in the legislative appropriation, but if he makes two trips a year like he will have to do unless he is here already which most of them ain't and then maybe a third trip at Christmas to be around the hearth and home with his loved ones to coin a phrase, where are the other twenty centses a mile coming from I would like to know?"

"You're absolutely right," I agreed. "And don't forget that money makes the mare go."

I thought Machinist's Mate Kelly was ready to drop the subject but it seems my last remark had served to set him off again.

"It doesn't have to be a mare, necessarily," he said, "but we could get at least three Congressmen back without tapping the till for the 20 cents a mile. Sen. Taylor comes galloping in on his horse and he could lend his two spare horses to two other Senators and they could ride in free, saving the taxpayers some dough which few people are trying to do these days, don't you agree?"

"Or," I said, helpfully, "Howard Hughes could go around in his flying boat picking up Senators and delivering them here on the cuff."

"I don't think it would do," objected Mr. Kelly, seriously, "I don't think the Senators would want Johnny Meyer picking up the check."

ing U. S. internationalist agencies maintain power lobbies backed strongly with dollars in political minded Washington, to protect the "liberties" of the DP's, but too often restrain Clay from practical rehabilitation and even normal diciplinary measures.

Thus while Clay has been weak in matters of discretionary action, he has also been a foil of forces which operate at contrary angles, conflicting with one another.

Example: Washington's financial experts agree that before Germany can be revived, its industries must be restored—more production, more employment, more goods and buying power. And at the same time the Allied Reparations Commission instructs Clay to dismantle 682 German (reduced from the original 1600) industrial plants for war indemnities to 16 nations (not including the U. S. A.).

Also German paper currency, with no metal backing, has small purchasing power. The only way to approximate its dollar exchange value is that an 8-cent (PX price) package of cigarets sells (black market) for 85 marks. Yet U. S. zonal law makes it a heinous offense to barter surplus goods.

Thus, if Tilly Hassenfuss outgrows her prewar rubber girdle, she may not legally trade it for Hilda Rumplepuss' extra shoes. Yet it's all right if Tilly gives Hilda 1500 reichsmarks and has Hilda hand it right back. That makes the girdle-shoes deal sanitary.

Result—all Germans lead a life of technical sin in which everybody who has anything traffics covertly. The farmer hides his produce from state inspection and swaps eggs for harness, flour for clothes, potatoes for bed sheets. The hard-put city dweller peddles his table china or whatever he can by the light of the moon for PX coffee or lard.

And the MG summary of intermediate courts is clogged with petty, medium and large offenders who get jail sentences or suspensions, knowing that the U. S. officer-judge and prosecutor are as guilty of under-the-counter trading as they, and feeling very miserable about it.

Thus when Lucius Clay issued his recent directive that "all black market operations by the troops must cease instantly under heavy penalties," he knew he had a tiger by the tail and couldn't let go. If he doesn't realize that every man-jack and lady-jill in the U. S. Occupation has contributed to this form of delinquency, he isn't well enough informed to be the Military Governor.

Recently Gen. Omar Bradley, hitherto much respected in this zone and mentioned as Clay's successor, lost considerable face with the troops by making a quick survey of the ETO, hitting the high spots, and certifying to "high morale" of the Occupation force.

The actual fact is that the Constabulary and Army, both officers and men, are sweating it out, with some career soldiers, philosophically resigned to staying here until U. S. prices drop.

As a U. S. war correspondent who witnessed the magnificent effort of our combat soldiery and our wartime abundance of machinery and supplies, I am not proud of what I have seen in the ground level of Occupation outposts.

Of the hundreds of Americans, high, low and middle, whom I have interviewed in every level of occupation, I have yet to find one who has a complimentary word to say for our administration or understands our policy.

All agree that we are making another over-all failure. That is the painful truth without benefit of aspirin.

The best that can be said is that comparatively little violence other than widespread thievery, burglary and a scattering of private murders is noticeable. There is no concerted German underground, no subversive movement other than a steady infiltration of Communism and Russian agents.

This is not because the Germans love us more, but love the Russians less. Their fear outstrips their hate.

Also, the German's entire attention is directed to scrounging a little extra food and fuel against the hard, famine-threatened winter ahead. He has no room for other thoughts.

Woman Storekeeper Defies Bandit Pair

Two bandits made $10 the hard way when they invaded a small store operated by Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Lang in Pleasant st., Cambridge.

On hearing their demand for cash, Mrs. Lang, 50, seized a stick with a steel blade jutting from the end and prepared to give battle. Her husband, however, induced her to cease resistance and she handed over the $10 bill.

the holdup under questioning by Boston and New York detectives and insisted he was not in Boston at the time.

After being booked as a fugitive from justice on a charge of armed robbery, he was arraigned in New York Felony Court. After Granito told the court he had no attorney, he was held without bail for hearing a week from today.

The three men held in Boston were questioned at length at separate police stations during the morning.

The sixth alleged member of the gang has been named to police but his identity has been kept secret until he is picked up, probably within 24 hours in the Manhattan district, police said.

The sensational development in the holdup investigation came, it was learned, from a double cross in the New York underworld.

PLANNED BIG JOB

A man whose identity is a closely guarded secret was picked up by Dist. Atty. Hogan's investigators in New York last Monday for a comparatively minor offense. Under questioning, he offered to tell what he knew of the Hyde Park robbery, and the capture of Granito followed quickly, it was learned from police.

This man told detectives in New York that Granito confided to him weeks ago that he was going to Boston "to pull off a big stickup," police said.

Last week, he was back in New York and displayed a Boston newspaper with headlines telling of the robbery at the B. F. Sturtevant plant, according to the informer's quoted story to police.

Dist. Atty. Hogan telephoned Capt. Joseph Crescio, head of the Massachusettts state detectives, and he conferred with Supt. Fallon immediately.

NABBED NEAR HOME

Lt. James F. Conniff for the State Police and Lt. James V. Crowley for the Boston police were sent to New York to join Hogan's men in breaking the case.

Granito was picked up without difficulty near his home in Brooklyn on Saturday. Names of the other alleged bandits were soon available to police, and the FBI, with the aid of Newark police, picked up "Happy Joe" Bellina, who said he has been working as a longshoreman, Granito recently described his occupation as a "sportswear salesman."

Boston police were told by Hogan's office that Pino and his brother-in-law, Costa, could be found at a Boston hotel. Detectives hurried there but a close check showed neither man was a guest.

In discussing this development at police headquarters, it was learned, another detective remarked:

"Why, I saw Pino last night in the lobby of the —— Hotel."

He and other officers hurried to this downtown hostelry and picked up both men without difficulty. They had been registered there for two days.

Other detectives in seeking Geoghegan went to his Somerville home and were referred to the home of a friend of his in Medford. He was picked up there during the afternoon yesterday.

The three men were quickly spirited away to a hiding place, probably one of the outlying police stations' cell blocks. They were questioned by a battery of detectives, but all inquiries as to the scene of the interrogations went unanswered.

Pino was whisked into police headquarters at 5 a. m. today, fingerprinted and photographed once again, and escorted out again by close-mouthed officers.

Chicken Buying By U. S. Planned

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP) —The Agriculture Dept. announced today a chicken-buying program designed to spur culling of low producing hens from poultry flocks to save grain for aid abroad.

The program also is designed, officials said, to conserve poultry supplies for later use.

Hens bought under the program will be placed in cold storage and released back to the consumer meat trade later when supplies of both poultry and red meats are much scarcer than at present.

The culling pledge was made when the Citizens Food Committee did away with the "poultryless Thursday" phase of its campaign to conserve 100,000,000 bushels of grain to help feed Europe this winter.

The department said the buying program will assure poultrymen a market for their culled chickens and also save possibly 30,000,000 bushels of grain between now and next Oct. 1.

ARREST TWO IN SOVIET ZONE

Soups, Home Cook's Friend

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

IT'S PROVIDENTIAL that at the very time when meat and egg economy is a must, plenty of condensed soup is available. This soup has proved itself truly the home cook's friend. Probably no other prepared food is so clever, so useful, so adaptable.

First of all, it's a concentrate in itself — an important item nowadays, when the amount of value our money buys is of prime importance. Then it's pure quality as well, for these soups are made of the pick of America's garden and farm products, with painstaking care according to treasured rules, by skilled chefs.

MACARONI AND TOMATO CASSEROLE

1 8-oz. pkg. elbow macaroni
½ cup diced onions
2 tbsp. bacon drippings
¼ cup diced green pepper
1 11-oz. can condensed cream of tomato soup, diluted with an equal quantity of water.
⅛ tsp. red pepper
½ tsp. salt

Cook macaroni according to directions on package. Saute onion in bacon drippings until tender. Add green pepper and flour for thickening. Blend well. Add soup, red pepper and salt. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Serve over cooked macaroni.

PORK CHOPS ON CREOLE CORN

To make the most of a few slim pork chops, season and brown them in a skillet. Saute 2 tbsp chopped onion and 2 tbsp. chopped green pepper in 2 tbsp. butter until tender. Combine with a dash of pepper, 2 cups drained, cooked whole kernel corn, and an undiluted 11-oz. can condensed cream of tomato soup. Pour in shallow baking dish; top with browned pork chops, pressing in slightly. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 45 minutes, or until pork chops are done.

HUNGARIAN GOULASH

1 lb. ground beef or veal
2 medium onions, chopped
½ medium green pepper, chopped
1 clove garlic
1 tbsp. salt 1 tsp. paprika
1 11-oz. can condensed cream of tomato soup, diluted with an equal quantity of water
3 large potatoes, cooked and diced

Combine first six ingredients in a skillet. Brown well. Add soup and water. Simmer for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add potatoes and simmer for 10 minutes.

FRANKFURTER SUPREME

6 frankfurters
1 11-oz. can condensed cream of tomato soup, undiluted
3 cups cooked kidney beans
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
½ tsp. prepared mustard
1 medium onion, sliced

Split frankfurters in half lengthwise and cut each piece in half crosswise. Combine soup, beans, salt, Worcestershire sauce and mustard. Place a layer of the soup mixture in a greased casserole. Add a layer of frankfurters and onions. Cover with soup mixture. Add remaining frankfurters and onions. Pour remaining soup mixture over the casserole. Bake, uncovered, in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 35 minutes.

Pork Chops on Creole Corn

Gives Skin Healthy Glow . . .

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

WE CAN HIDE many things . . . but we can't hide the condition of the complexion. That's as obvious as the nose on the face. (A nose usually plagued with grime-filled pores.) For skin DOES tell tales on you . . . good and bad. It can speak of glowing health, a good digestion, a happy and serene disposition . . . or it can tell surprising tales of unwise living, reckless eating and drinking and careless personal habits.

The complexion condition is a barometer of the degree of beauty you possess. Sluggish skin . . . dulled look. Vibrant, radiant, healthy skin . . . beautiful appeal. When you reflect that your skin is a sensitive network covering thousands of tiny nerve cells . . . a highly individual organism . . . you can realize the importance of keeping your skin clean and your complexion dazzling.

Did you ever look into a two-way mirror . . . on one side the normal reflection is seen and on the other, a magnified and enlarged mirrored picture? It is a wonderful comparison tester. A woman could learn much about her skin she never knew before by just peering on both sides and making comparative mental notes of the difference!

If you have a clear, unblemished, transparent complexion . . . as delicately pink and white as a rose petal (and how it must be definite by spring) . . . then the mirror reveals it and you know you need to perpetuate your beauty care to preserve such loveliness.

If you haven't . . . and you can see you haven't you may be paying the penalty of neglect by showing the world a dull, muddy, lifeless-looking skin. There may be minor eruptions or occasional ugly blackheads, too, to add to the disillusioning picture.

CLEANSE FACE TWICE A DAY AT LEAST

Twice a day is the absolute minimum for cleansing your face. Three or four times a day would be better . . . since the older you get, the lazier your skin grows in throwing off waste. Regardless of the times you freshen up during the day . . . ALWAYS do a very thorough, super-duper job of cleansing at bedtime. Dust, waste and stale makeup may so easily turn into obnoxious blackheads or eruptions.

Stimulating friction helps remove dead cuticle that makes your skin look dull and tired. A fine wash is made by mixing a handful of ingenious little beauty grains and applying it directly to the skin. Often a single wash leaves the skin especially smooth and transparent, glowing and fresh.

This wash has a way of dissolving clogged extraneous waste matter in the pores and removing accumulated dust particles from the complexion. Its gentle but abrasive action on the skin supplies wonderful stimulation . . . and you can see the fresh and nourishing blood doing its work in the skin tissue. The skin takes on a healthy, ruddy glow during the process. When it quiets down there is softness and radiance remaining.

STAR STORY and beauty dictated it. Lovely Ellen Drew . . . soon to get her first Columbia starring role . . . was discovered behind a soda fountain in Hollywood's traditional drugstore locale. Without beauty . . . Ellen would never have had her chance. And without facial appeal . . . so many "at home" girls are never noticed . . . however brilliant they may be of mind and understanding of current events. The complexion tells its own star story.

For the name of this beauty grain skin-smoother, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, any day except Sunday, or write to me, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Losing This Boy Good Thing

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am 16 years old and deeply in love with a boy 20. He says he has never loved any girl as much as he loves me. He also told me that I don't know much about life, and he wants to stay away and not see me for a while to find out if I will change, or trust him more than I did before.

I used to see him every other night, but now I haven't seen him for five days. Do you really think he loves me, or do you think he wants me to forget him? I can't forget him, no matter how hard I try.

"LONELY."

DEAR "LONELY":

I could be wrong, but your letter gives me the impression that the young man may be looking for a less innocent type of relationship with a girl than he has found he may have with you. Otherwise, I don't think the fact that you are unsophisticated would make him lose interest in you, as he seems to have done. I think it is a very good thing that he took himself off, and advise you to make up your mind that he is gone for good.

Believe me, you haven't lost anything and, no matter how much you think you will not be able to forget, the fact is that time will do the forgetting for you in spite of yourself.

Plenty of Flair in Styles

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

IF it's flair you are looking for in fashion, now is the time you will find it. Street costumes, so soon to be hidden under Winter coats, are full of bright new ideas as if they were making up in—and flavor for the little time that remains to them to do their solo act.

There are in-between suits that boast detachable capes, fine for the few warmish days that are left before fur coat weather, or equally fine (but without the cape) to wear all Winter under a coat. This is soft, drapable suede that falls into folds as easily as silk. Its suppleness makes its usage dramatic, whether the suede is cut into prim, straight lines or into curved, shaped folds.

The between-seasons costume designed by D'Laurence Roth and sketched today combines smoke gray wool with brown suede. The skirt is straight and slim. The long tunic, dipping to the back, has three-quarter length sleeves, a turn-over collar and a large pocket trimmed in suede. Covering the tunic is a small cape of brown suede. It is draped high to the neck. Like the tunic, it dips to the back.

Sinatras Expect June Stork Visit

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (INS)—The Frank Sinatras are expecting another baby early in June. This news was given to me officially and should put an immediate stop to rumors that Nancy and Frank have separated.

There was never any truth to that story.

The rumor Nancy had gone back to the Coast from New York because she was finished with Frank was just malicious gossip. Frank had to stay East for his radio program. Nancy wanted to get back to supervise the building of a new home in Palm Springs.

Now Frank will have plenty of time to add a new nursery to that desert retreat.

The Sinatras have two other children, Nancy 7, and Frank, Jr., 3.

Smart Set — Fete Felton Deb

By BETTY ALDEN

MR. AND MRS. CORNELIUS C. FELTON of New York, who met and were married in Boston, are presenting both of their daughters to society here.

Judith, the eldest, made her debut in Nov. 1946, at the Copley Plaza. This week, almost on the anniversary of that party, their daughter Janet will be presented at a dance at the Copley Plaza patterned exactly after her sister's party. Janet's dance will be Friday evening, and preceded by an ushers' dinner given at the hotel by Mr. and Mrs. Felton.

Since the Feltons spend every summer at Hamilton it is natural that the sons of many of their North Shore friends should usher for Janet. They include the sons of two Bay State senators, William L. Saltonstall and George Cabot Lodge, Harcourt Amory, Edwin U. C. Bohlen, Albert Bradley Carter Jr., Sumner Pingree Jr., Samuel M. Felton Jr., Q. A. Shaw McKean Jr., J. Hampden Robb Jr., Walter D. Sohier, Charles P. Vauclain 2d, Richard S. West, Charles W. Chatfield, Robert P. Goodale, C. Oliver Iselin 3d, James M. Ritchie, John L. Thorndike.

Mrs. Richard D. Sears, Jr., will give a dinner for several young persons who are going on to the dance, and also entertaining will be Mrs. Richard C. Storey for her debutante daughter, Ruth, and Mrs. Frank Crocker.

Mrs. Felton was Ruth Gaston of Boston, one of the popular debs in the era following the last war and she, too, made her debut at the Copley Plaza. In her day it was unusual for a girl of her social position to have a career so it startled Boston society no end when she became tired of the social butterfly life and opened a millinery shop on Newbury st. to occupy her time. Her marriage to Mr. Felton took place at Trinity Church in 1926.

LORNA HUBBARD, 1947-48 debutante recently elected a provisional member in the exclusive Vincent Club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Hubbard.

LORNA HUBBARD, one of the new provisional members of the Vincent Club, is looking forward to making her debut at a dance early next month at Baldwin House, the spacious South Natick home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Hubbard.

TUCKE DAWAY on the byways of Beacon Hill are many homes filled with priceless heirlooms such as family portraits by the great painters of a past era, rich mahogany furniture and fine old brocades.

Eight of these homes will be open to the public next Saturday in a visit to Beacon Hill sponsored by the Boston League of Women Voters. Owners of the eight houses are being entertained at tea this afternoon to meet the ladies chosen to assist them in showing visitors through the homes. Mrs. Thomas H. Mahoney of 170 Beacon st. is giving the tea.

Owners include the Misses Frances, Isabella, Harriot and Margaret Curtis of 28 Mt. Vernon, where their mother instituted the first kindergarten in this country. Also Miss Rose Standish Nichols, whose lovely place on Mt. Vernon is typical of the work of the great architect Charles Bulfinch. Mrs. Moses Williams and her son, who close their beautiful place on the Charles river in Needham and move in town to an apartment each winter, are showing their apartment which has been made over from an old stable on Byron st.

Also attending the tea are Mrs. Robert Proctor, Mrs. John Bartol, Mrs. Tilton Hillyer, Mrs. Allan Higgins and Mr. Nathaniel Saltonstall. Their assistants on Saturday will include Mrs. Reginald Jones, Mrs. Gerald Curtis, Miss Louise MacDonald, Mrs. Myron Heller, Mrs. Florian C. Arey, Mrs. Edith Richards, Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Andrew Rosenberger.

The engagement of Elizabeth M. "Betty" Lynch to Joseph A. Sullivan of Detroit is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lynch of Melrose.

The bride-to-be graduated from Rosemont College, Rosemont, Pa. Mr. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Sullivan of Detroit, is attending the University of Detroit Law School. He served three years in the Army Air Forces in the CBI Theater.

ZONTA INTERNATIONAL is celebrating its 28th birthday this week and to celebrate the up and coming Boston Zonta Club is having a birthday dinner this evening at the Women's Educational and Industrial Union. Guest speaker will be Virginia Drew, who will give character sketches from samples of members' handwriting. Cora I. Blanchard, president, and Ethel Allen, secretary are presiding.

Business on Rise In New England

Business was on the upgrade in New England during the third quarter of the year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston reported today but rising prices outran earnings to the extent that borrowings increased and bank savings fell off.

For the first time in four months, industrial production rose in August, the bank said, and this was reflected by increases in manufacturing employment in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Department store sales, after a poor August, snapped back in September to a level about that of a year ago.

Murray Backs Reuther Election

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 10 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray today flatly endorsed Walter Reuther for re-election as president o fthe United Auto Workers.

He gave the endorsement at a news conference after making a speech at the UAW-CIO convention.

Asked if he favored the re-election of George Addes as secretary-treasurer and R. J. Thomas and Dick Leonard as vice-presidents, Murray replied:

"What I said about Reuther is as far as I care to go."

Alert Vermont Student Rescues Four Anglers

BOMOSEEN, Vt., Nov. 10—Four fisherman today owed their lives to the quick thinking of Charles Larson, student at Vermont Agricultural School, whose family farm is close by Lake Bomoseen.

When a high wind overturned their motorboat, Larson set out in his rowboat and dragged them one by one to safety. He then took them to his home and put them to bed. They were suffering from exposure and immersion. They are Alex Catozzi of Rutland, Louis Houts of Albany, N. Y., and two unidentified friends of Houts.

'Marriage of Figaro' Opera in English Pleases Everyone

By LEO GAFFNEY

"This is the way to do opera."

Everybody said the same thing yesterday at the Boston Opera House, where Boris Goldovsky and his New England Opera Theater took advantage of the Sunday lay-off of "Show Boat" to present the first of three festival performances of as many Mozart operas, to be given in series, and in English.

It was "The Marriage of Figaro." The second will be the almost forgotten "Idomeneo," on Dec. 21, and the final, "Don Giovanni," Jan. 18.

As demonstrated last season at Jordan Hall across the street, and again at Tanglewood in the Berkshires, Goldovsky has a fresh and challenging conception of the music drama.

Everybody's young. Nobody's fat. The words are intelligible. You can't find the prompter, much less hear him, because all hands know the music and "business" backwards.

Whether it's solo, trio or any of the terribly tricky ensembles that come in consequence, nobody ever looks at the conductor. The boys and girls must know their stuff cold. And they do. (Ever see any other opera troupe do that all the way through?).

Goldovsky himself conducts and, in the manner of Bruno Walter with Mozart opera, plays piano for the recitatives. The English text by Edward Dent is marvelously contrived in idiomatic but not "modernized" English.

The scenery is all easy set-pieces; cheap, but good enough in consideration of admission prices. Costumes are all right too. What you want is the music.

Mildred Mueller, as Cherubino, seemed to draw most applause. The tribute was as much to her personality as her singing, though. Indeed, all the voices are on the light side. Robert Gay was the Count; Margaret Brink the Countess; Francis Barnard the Figaro; Margaret Codd Goldovsky, with good dash and coquetry, the Susanna.

The big Opera House was filled.

OFF SCHEDULE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (INS) —A desk sergeant in the Bronx asked the Eighth Ave. Coach Corp. if it had "lost a bus," and a check showed a $16,500 job was missing.

New York, which apparently has trouble keeping track of its vehicles—a more noted bus wound up in Florida several months ago when the driver got bored—this time had one stolen.

Police said someone took the 44-passenger bus from its garage, drove it six miles and abandoned it. Police entered the case when motorists complained it was blocking traffic.

Special Midnight Show at Old Howard

There will be a special midnight show tonight at 12 o'clock at the Old Howard. The new troupe comes direct from a tour of the burlesque circuit.

Notre Dame Ready To Play Army On Michie Field

By FRANK LEAHY
Head Coach at Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 10—Being sentimental and Irish we like to believe that maybe dreams can come true. Certainly one came true for us when the Irish beat Army, 27-7. A dream that began on a tropic island in the Pacific during war years and ended in a flurry of snow Saturday afternoon in Notre Dame Stadium.

Terry Brennan, a nineteen-year-old honor student from Milwaukee, had a lot to do with making our dream a reality. In running back the opening Army kick-off 98 yards for a touchdown, Terry not only displayed canny running ability, he showed courage in gambling and taking the high fling kick over his shoulder and running, instead of permitting it to fall in the end zone for a touchback, the usual procedure.

Terry's run was spectacular—and heart warming, but it was only a part of what to us was a very splendid example of team play. The entire Notre Dame team played as one, each man doing his share.

If we had to single out individuals, we would mention the left side of our line—Martin, Connor and Fischer as a unit. And this is not meant to take away an iota from Ziggy Czarobski, a very colorful young man indeed and the rest of his mates.

Lujack was his usual brilliant, dependable self, but his passing was handicapped by the wind.

Army, in ending the series that began in 1913, as usual was high spirited and well coached. We are indeed sorry to see the series end. If it is a matter of Army's not wanting to play in New York baseball parks, then we are quite sure Notre Dame would be glad to play at Michie Field at West Point.

Michie Field accommodates about 34,000 fans against 78,000 at Yankee Stadium in New York. This should prove Notre Dame is not interested in crowds only. We would like to continue the series. Army is a worthy opponent for any team.

We hope you kind readers will forgive us for indulging in so much personal comment. But for more than three long years we had looked forward to that game. It was the one we wanted to win.

Looking around the nation, Virginia was shoved from the unbeaten and untied ranks by hard-riding Pennsylvania, 19-7. This lad, Bob Deuber, who tallied twice for Penn before being injured in the final period, must be quite a player. Skip Minisi, as usual, was right in there all the time. A fine competitor, this Minisi.

Aside from Penn and ourselves, Michigan, Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Utah, Southern California and Kansas all scored important victories.

Michigan rolled on toward the Big Nine title and scored their seventh victory in crushing Indiana, 35-0. As we have said before Notre Dame would welcome a chance to engage the Wolverines.

Georgia Tech moved nearer the Sugar Bowl with a 16-14 win over Navy; Southern Methodist gained its seventh straight triumph by beating the Texas Aggies, 13-0; Southern California beat Stanford, 14-0; Kansas stopped Nebraska, 13-6, and Utah beat Colorado A. & M., 19-0.

We had a good week, for us at least, in selections, naming thirty winners against six losses and bringing our season's total to 177 winners, 59 losers and eight ties.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 10 (AP)—State Fish and Game Director Ralph G. Carpenter announced today a 15-day extension of the New Hampshire woodcock hunting season, starting tomorrow.

The exension will be effecive in secen Central and Southern Counties—Belknap, Strafford, Sullivan, Merrimack, Hillsborough, Rockingham and Cheshire.

Carpenter said he requested the extension to make up for the regular 15-day season which was lost when a forest fire hazard closed the woodlands for 25 days. A Presidential Proclamation allowed the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service to extend migratory bird seasons in States that closed their wooded areas.

Good Deer Bag Reported First Day in Maine

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 10 (AP)—Scores of deer fell today as an army of hunters advanced into Maine woodlands on the belated opening day of the season.

Weather conditions ranged from good to ideal for nimrods who were prevented by Governor Horace Hildreth's ban on hunting from seeking the white-tails earlier.

At Standish, the first deer was tagged by Howard Burdwood, Jr., South Portland, who finished his 1947 deer slaying one hour after the season opening. His bag was a six-point buck.

John Fowler, Standish, a soldier on furlough, tagged the second one there a short time later, and Fred E. Cole, Standish town clerk, said 13 more were tagged as the day wore on.

Reports from the Moosehead Lake area indicated that a four-inch snowfall had made tracking conditions perfect.

Moody Sarno May Coach Holy Cross Team Next Year

By HUCK FINNEGAN

It's "Clear the Tracks for BC" as long as Dennyers is coaching. Myers is th Gen. Patton of football, always going forward. His offs is so mystifying and so ac celerated that Boston's pro Yanks want him, that Philly gles' Greasy Neale asks hir

"Please, Denny, gimme a couple of plays that will beat the Bears."

The pros want Myers, Jack Curley knew it when he signed him to a four-year contract. Boy, was Myers' wife sore! "Let's go big league" she pleaded. Answered husband Denny: "I gotta even that 55-12 score." (1942).

That's Myers. He has his pride. He's offensive-minded, like any good general should be. Dick Harlow is the acknowledged master of defenses, but Harvard's Stadium isn't putting out the SRO sign these days. Harvard doesn't gallop 30 yards at a clip. BC does.

Yet, the other fellow has the ball some times, and that is where a bronzed line coach yclept Moody Sarno enters the picture.

Sarno's been the unsung Myers partner since they succeeded Frank Leahy in 1941. He took over Myers' job when Denny went with the Pacific and with a bunch of kids whom the service wouldn't take he managed to tie Harvard and its navy group.

From association with Myers, he's learned to move the ball. A fellow doesn't have to be born a back to be offensive-minded. Little Harlow, Leahy, Myers played on the line. So did Moody Sarno in his undergraduate days at Fordham.

Those were the happy days, Cav was on his way out when Sarno entered. iHs coaches were Leahy (line) and Crowley (backfield).

Crowley's teams seldom scored (Will his Chicago Rockets ever win?), and one of Fordham's great victories came when sophomore Moody Sarno blocked a kick on Alabama's Dixie Howell, turned it into a safety, and mighty Fordham won 2-0.

That, incidentally, was the only kick Howell had blocked in his collegiate career. He was a kicking-passing guy who threw his thunderbolts to Don Hutson. Good old days.

But those good old days came a decade ago. Now Sarno is matured. He's had the experience of head-coaching, and line-coaching. He's mentioned along with Herb Kopf and Hugh Devore as Ox DaGrosa's successor at Holy Cross. He's ready to branch out. For a tackle-to-tackle group his line (Stautner, Papaleo, etc.) will measure up to Notre Dame's.

Myers is signed to a four-year contract at BC. Sarno? Who knows and who cares? Just an unknown line coach, and can you name the present Harvard line coach or his predecessor?

Virginia gallops over Harvard, Princeton gallops over Harvard. It is said that games are won and lost in the line. That doesn't always hold true. Wake Forest made only three first downs to BC's 19. Wake Forest won 14-13. But Wake Forest didn't do it through the line. A short cheer for Sarno, and here's wishing him luck, if he does go to Holy Cross, against every opponent but Boston College.

Clasby wasn't as smart at playpicking as he was against Georgetown. He's good but not as good as that "two-touchdowns-better-than-Stuka" advertising he received . . . BC stays home until Thursday. Then it takes off for Tennessee . . . "If we fumble (7) as we did against Wake Forest, we'll lose," cautioned Myers, though Tennessee isn't half the team it was when it lost to BC in the Sugar Bowl . . . Diminick and Poissant, killer-dillers on the hoof, will be ready to face Tennessee, said Myers. If they had been able to play the second half against Wake Forest, the outcome might have been different.

Experienced Joe McCarthy, Williams Should Get Along

How will Ted Williams get along with Joe McCarthy That's what the gang on the corner wanted to know. The stopped talking football long enough to get the answer, an they like football. They've heart McCarthy is tough. He is.

McCarthy, be it said, once an for all, is the supreme boss of any club he takes over. No front office guy. All the years he won pennants with the Yanks, he never went upstairs. Had lunch every noon with Ed Barrow in Frank Stevens' private eatery.

McCarthy won't go near the Red Sox front office. No doubt he'll have lunch with Cronin in Tommy Cummings' cubby and go on from there. McCarthy never would let anybody suspect him of "going upstairs."

But by making the big shots come down stairs, McCarthy showed his stuff. He showed it also when he joined the Cubs from Louisville and Grover Cleveland Alexander tried to push him about as a "busher." Alexander was traded forthwith after getting spanked.

McCarthy at the same time showed his courage by challenging a pitcher on his Cubs. The pitcher was supposed to be a tough guy, a henchman of Al Capone's. "Put 'em up you quitting ——" McCarthy challenged.

McCarthy showed it later on in New York in the celebrated Ruth case. McCarthy won, and went on from there to unprecedented triumphs.

How will Ted Williams get along with McCarthy?

Note this well:

McCarthy never had a ball player who made more money than he. Of all the years Joe DiMaggio was his ace, the highest salary DiMadge ever got was $42,500. Now McCarthy got Williams who makes twice as much as DiMadge playing in a park that seats 33,000 to Yankee Stadium's 68,000.

How will Ted Williams get along with McCarthy?

Well, Wilhams is matured now. He won't dare challenge McCarthy to fine him as he did Cronin before the war. He won't challenge Boston's fans to come down and fight. He won't swear and cuss and chase the kids away once and forever. He won't have Eddie Collins backing his every idiosyncracy.

Cronin always has admired McCarthy. Rather finish second to him than win the pennant in front of Steve O'Neill. Cronin used to be a most likeable, loqua cious chap. He lost face whe Williams declared his independ ence in front of older men lik Lefty Grove and Jimmy Fox from the A's. Connie Mack too care of his problem children.

Williams won't be fresh in fron of McCarthy. He won't have an $7.50 breakfasts in his room a he did in Washington's Shorehar Hotel, when he was denied acces to the dining room because h wouldn't wear a necktie.

McCarthy's theme song to ever Yankee recruit was: "You're Yankee. That means you're champion. You're a champion o the field as well as on the fiel Dress like a champion. Act like champion. If you don't you're Yankee no longer."

McCarthy is 60 today but h likes a fight. If you ask hir "what did you do to Philadelphi Jack O'Brien?" he's got the an swer. He boxed with Philadelphi Jack, and he's got a punch left

Williams will run out his hit under McCarthy. Williams wi not loaf on the field. Williams wi have no off-the-field manager a he has today in Freddie Corcoran Jimmy Braddock's manager Jo Gould tried to cut in on Joe Di Madge, and Gould wound u farther away than left field.

It's a funny thing to see a man ager like Cronin move upstair and give way to a man 20 year his senior. It's like saying: "I can't do anything with the guy you try it."

Of course Eddie Collins scoute Williams and got him for a song —the best scouting job ever be cause Collins brought back Bobby Doerr with him. Collins has been Williams' No. 1 booster ever since and that didn't make it easy fo Cronin.

But now Cronin is in Collins shoes, and McCarthy is runnin the show. McCarthy will run it too, run it without interference from "upstairs." FINNEGAN.

Georgia Tech and Penn On Undefeated Slate

By BILL GRIMES

Although Georgia Tech and Pennsy had close calls, the Virginia Cavaliers was the only major team to bow out of the undefeated and untied group over the week-end.

Bob Deuber, one of Penn's many flashy backs, aided and abetted by a couple of key blocks by Walt Farnum, raced 61 and then 56 yards for with enough points to have beaten Virginia single-handed and, ironically, the Cavaliers' "T.D." was scored by Grover Cleveland Jones, who was the Red and Blue's regular fullback during the war.

The Rambling Wrecks of Georgia Tech cashed in a Navy fumble to come from behind in the fourth quarter and take a 16 to 14 verdict, while Penn State, the highest scoring machine in the intercollegiate picture (Saturday a. m.) blew enough gaskets to be held to seven points by a run of the mill Temple.

Notre Dame and Michigan ran true to form against Army and Indiana, but the Southern Methodist Mustangs had to resurrect their "Aerial Circus" to knock off the Texas Aggies, via two touchdown passes by Gil Johnson.

Wesleyan, New Hampshire and Trinity, the three New England colleges with perfect records, remained in the win column. In chalking up its 19th straight victory, Wesleyan successfully defended its "Little Three" title by beating Williams. New Hampshire ran roughshod over Tufts and Trinity toyed with Norwich.

The Boston College Eagles are "feeling mighty low." For the second time this fall, they were beaten by a margin of one point. Three weeks ago, they dropped a 14 to 13 decision to LSU and repeated that feat on Saturday to Wake Forest.

Now, there isn't any question in the minds of the close followers of Boston College, but that Denny Myers' Eagles comprise a better club than either the Tigers or the Deacons. It was the breaks not LSU or Wake Forest that beat BC.

The Eagles have two push overs coming up, Tennessee and St. Mary's. "Ole Miss" handed the Vols the worst defeat ever suffered by a Neyland coached Tennessee eleven last Saturday winning by a margin of 30 points. The only Tennessee victories have been over very minor opponents, Chattanooga and Tenne-see Tech, while Coach Jimmy Phelan's Gallopng Gaels have been soundly thrashed by California, Washington, Nevada and Detroit.

Despite their two setbacks, Boston College is still in the running a bid to the Orange Bowl. There isn't a club in the country operating on an offense with as much "box office appeal" as Denny Myers' Eagles. And, you should give yourself up if you think the promoters of bowl games don't keep an eagle eye on the "gate." So, if BC comes through against the Crusaders, they're "in."

Harvard took another shellacking Saturday. They were completely outclassed by Princeton. It was the Crimson's third straight defeat and, but for Holy Cross' mental lapses it would have been the fourth.

Although the story that Dick Harlow is going to quit Harvard has not been verified, it has some foundation. Harlow is getting along in years. Moreover, his health isn't too good. After every game, win or lose, he is mentally and physically exhausted. Although he has assistant coaches, Harlow's berth at Cambridge is a one man job, because that's the way he wants it. But, there are far too many details for any one man to handle a major college squad and get the best results. The top-ranging mentors have the best available aides, some of whom have better football "savvy" than their bosses, but lack the psychology angle.

Harvard isn't any different than any of the other big universities in that its entire athletic program is financed by its varsity football games. Right now, the H. A. A. is said to be trying to figure out how it is going to take the band to New Haven for the Yale game. We question if Harvard has had 25,000 cash customers at any game in the Stadium this fall. The crowds have been "officially estimated," whatever that means. And, Harvard is in a bad way when Holy Cross, Dartmouth and Princeton don't fill the Stadium.

Although the figures have been slightly padded, Boston College thanks to Denny Myers' crowd-pleasing offense, is enjoying its most prosperous season at Braves Field.

A clever piece of generalship on the part of Eddie Finn gave Brown its fifth win in eight years over Yale, Dartmouth remained even with Columbia for more than two periods and then was submerged under a 35 to 0 defeat at Baer Field, and like BC, Holy Cross turned its back on three or four opportunities to beat Colgate and settled for a draw.

Walt Holmer's Colby Mules tossed the Pine Tree State championship into a cocked hat by bottling up Art Blanchard and beating Bates. And, if the Bobcats beat the Black Bears and the Mules hang a defeat on Bowdoin next Saturday in the final round, the championship will wind up with Maine, Bates and Colby deadlocked with two wins and one defeat.

The Minnesota Gophers stopped Purdue's drive to keep within reach of Michigan, Ohio State beat Northwestern three minutes after the guns, via a series of penalties and Texas bounced back after its one point defeat by S. M. U. slapping a 27 to 7 defeat on Baylor.

Southern California continued as pacemaker in the Pacific Coast Conference with a win over Stanford and California remained in contention by downing Washington.

IC 4A Games In Stadium Next Year

The famous IC4A track and field championships, will be staged at the Harvard Stadium in 1948 probably on the 28 and 29 of May.

Athletic Director William Bingham stated that "it is almost a certainty that the IC4A meet will be designated as a regional tryout for the Olympic trials." This statement was based on a telephone conversation Bingham held with Asa Bushnell, secretary of the United States Olympic Committee.

At present the NCAA and NAAU championships stand as the qualifying meets for the trials but it is now probable that they would undoubtedly be supplemented—perhaps by the Big Nine, Pacific Coast and IC4A meets.

NYU won last year's 44-college meet at Franklin Field. Michigan State was second and Harvard and Penn tied for third. The only Crimson entry to win his event was javelin thrower, Don, who looms as a definite Olympic possibility.

Southworth Counting On Scouts, Farm Teams For Success of Braves

Several major league clubs were accused today by Manager Billy Southworth of the Braves of making "prohibitive demands" in attempted player deals. This definitely put a crimp in the Tribes 1948 pennant chances.

As a result, Southworth told a meeting of 50 members of the Braves far-flung farm and scouting system:

"It is all too apparent that we must build up the players within our farm system if we want continued success."

This places the responsibility on the farm system personnel for the successful development of young baseball prospects.

Southworth made the statement at a meeting at French Lick, Ind., over the week-end attended by Pres. Louis Perini and Gen. Mgr. John Quinn of the Tribe.

The confab was called when several deals fell through because of the "prohibitive demands" and to discuss the 8000 players who will be eligible for draft at the meetings beginning today in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Southworth, who signed a new five-year contract calling for more than a quarter of a million dollars to lead the Braves, placed much of the responsibility for the long-range success of the tribe squarely on the shoulders of the minor league personnel of the Braves family. He said:

"Some of the representatives of clubs with whom General Manager Quinn and President Perini have talked seemed to have a bad habit of vastly underrating the dollar value of our players and just as extensively overrating the worth of their athletes.

"The only method I know of combatting such reasoning is by developing so many good players that we will not have to depend upon trades with others to strengthen the parent club."

Southworth, Perini and Quinn told the group of 50 that the general policy was designed to make the entire organization function more smoothly. Before the leaders of the farm and scouting systems left for their homes in 20 different states, they were told:

"To make a complete, careful, painstaking analysis of every player in the entire Braves organization to determine whether the individual should be: Promoted, demoted, retained in status quo, traded or released outright."

The trio also recommended, "a discussion of, and a series of recommendations for remedies to some of the problems in building a productive farm system."

Prexy Perini pointed out: "We don't want to be second-rate. The success of any undertaking is not dependent upon luck, but upon the concerted effort of every person in an organization. Hustle is not associated with luck.

What would delight me most would be to have every man at this meeting be the most-sought-after individual in his particular field. That is the type of organization which breeds success."

Southworth concluded: "Scouts are the forgotten men of baseball. But I appreciate the fact that I am what you make me. Masterminding doesn't make a manager. It is just plain, down the middle of the road horse sense to realize that good material is the basic requirement to make a good ball club."

Meulheuser Star Player Says Donelli

Denny Myers had a birthday party this afternoon at the Kenmore. After Denny had blown out the candles Buff Donelli, BU, turned to wingbacks and tailbacks. "That Frank Meulheuser, Colgate, is the best fullback that I have seen all this season.

I sat in the Holy Cross stands," said Myers, "and got woozy. He will do a pulverizing job on us in two weeks."

Buff took some ribbing concerning the feats of his BU freshman club. "They were great against Dartmouth," was the chorus. Buff smiled.

Dick Harlow missed the luncheon but end coach Harry Jacunski was there instead.

"Brown, our next opponent, uses the wing T which is similar to B. U.'s. The exception is," said Harry, "is that the two deep backs play closer than those of B. U. There was a tone of admiration in Jucunski's voice as he spoke of Brown. They are giant killers after knocking off Yale 20-14.

Denny Myers mentioned that the loss of Ernie Stautner is a big loss to the Eagles. Ernie is still at St. Elgabeth's Hospital with an injured kidney.

Heavyweights Shkor and Hafer Top Callahan Card

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

Boxing fans have always liked to watch big men in action. Tonight at the Arena that is the order. Johnnie Shkor, Boston, and Walter Hafer, Kentucky, both well over 200 pounds and above the six foot mark, will meet in a main bout. The offer is like timber vs. timber. Both men are young and are hard alert punchers. Hafer is a past Marine Corps champion. Shkor won a Navy heavyweight title.

Hafer, a former Kentucky schoolboy star at basketball, football and track, is 23 years old. He weighs 205 pounds and stands 6 ft. 1 in. in height. Walter has been training at Kelley and Hayes gym for the past four days. His trainer, Charlie Goldman—handler of the likes of Ambers, Archibald, Godoy, and others—has Hafer in good shape.

Shkor preferred to remain in Baltimore to do his training. Johnnie has a half-dozen good heavies he works with in that city. Johnnie reported to Mgr. Johnnie Buckley this morning from his Baltimore headquarters.

Shkor was a handy favorite early last week. The Hafer appearance in Boston for training drew away some of the Shkor support, however. At ring time Johnnie will remain a slight favorite to win. A knockout is very probable in this bout for both boys are better than average punchers.

Boston fans remember the Shkor-Mauriello fight at the Arena last March. When the fight was stopped due to Tami's gashed condition in the eighth round there was little to choose between the boys. Shkor had marked Tami with a multitude of head punches. Johnnie thinks that he has improved since that fight. Of course that was the end of Mauriello for the young New York heavyweight has never fought the same since. Tami, in fact, was asked to retire after his recent trouncing by Gus Lesnevich.

The Hafer ring record is good. Walter has had 28 professional fights. He lost five of them and had one draw. Hafer drew some good gates on the West Coast for his manager, Chris Dundee, as he ran up a string of seven straight knockouts over fair opposition.

The Tuesday night fight show at Mechanics Bldg. offers Bert Lytell, Fresno, California, middleweight, and Charlie Early of Boston. Lytell is well known in Boston. He has dumped Fernandez and Jones in bouts here. Early, although a Bostonian, has been working in westward sectors. Charlie claims wins over Joe Blackwood and Georgie Martin among others.

Joe DiMaggio Back in Hospital

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10 (INS)—Joe DiMaggio, slugging outfielder of the champion New York Yankees, is in Johns Hopkins Hospital today for an operation for a bone chip in his throwing arm.

DiMaggio, who entered the hospital late Sunday night, will have his arm thoroughly examined today by Dr. George Bennett, famous bone specialist, who operated on the bone spur on the ballplayer's left heel last April.

The Yankee is expected to remain in the hospital for 10 days.

Art Spinney's Dashing Play Acclaimed by Fans

Generally conceded as the largest college line in the country, the Boston College forward wall also can be ranked as one of the most formidable frontiers in the nation. From end to end the Eagles have a rugged, tough group of linemen.

Holding down the left end berth is sophomore Art Spinney, 195-pounder from Saugus. Spinney has has been a standout all season but his performance against Wake Forest was worth All - America consideration.

A top notch competitor, Spinney played the greater part of the game and was all over the field, making tackles, throwing blocks and piling up interference. He caught a valuable pass, giving BC a first down on the Deacon's one-yard line and grabbed a blocked kick which had been deflected by his teammate John Ring at the other end post.

Next to Spinney is burly John Kissell, third of the Kissells from Nashua, N. H., to perform for BC. Kissell, a junior who stands 6.2 and weighs 220 pounds, was easily the standout lineman of the game.

Fastest man on the frontier, it was Kissell who opened up the wide holes to permit BC ball carriers to pile up 272 yards rushing. On one occasion he streaked through into the Wake Forest backfield and knocked the highly touted Tom Fetzer for a loop.

Denny Myers was high in his praise of Mario "Yoyo" Gianelli, 270-pound left guard, heaviest starter. One of the few seniors on the roster, Gianelli, an Everett resident, has played great ball all season but Saturday he really outdid himself. Gianelli's on the pro draft to play for the Philadelphia Eagles under Earle "Greasy" Neale and, if his play this season is any criterion, he should be a standout in the play for pay ranks.

Big Ed Kennedy, first string center, has been one of the biggest surprises of the season at the Heights. Last fall Kennedy, towering 6.6 sophomore from Tamaqua, Pa., was just an awkward-looking kid. He neither acted or looked like a football player. His actions on the gridiron were clumsy and led many observers to wonder why Myers continued to be patient with him.

Myers, however, saw Kennedy's potentialities. He advised the behemoth to take up track under the tutelage of the master of the cinders, Jack Ryder. Myers also told Kennedy to play handball during the off months.

The change was apparent from the first day of practice. Kennedy was beginning to lose his awkwardness. He was developing into a fast charging, hard hitting lineman. In addition, his extreme height height made him an ideal candidate to use on pass defense.

Converted from a first string post as an end last fall into a guard, Dom Papaleo, 220-pound sophomore from Cambridge, was destined to fill in for regulars Vic Palladino of Watertown and Gianelli this season. A wrenched knee sidelined Palladino for the season and "Pappy" as he is known to his fellow players was moved up into the starting post at right guard. He's been there ever since.

A barrel-chested individual, popular with the rest of the team, "Pappy" is rapidly developing into one of the best guards in the East. He's fast and smart, a good blocker and tackler and, despite the fact that he's fairly new at the position, is respected by all his opponents.

Georgetown's Richard "Bus" Werder arrived here highly publicized as a potential All-America candidate. Some people felt a little sorry for "Pappy" that he had to face Werder. Not so for Papaleo, he proceeded to push his highly-touted opponent all over the turf at Braves Field.

Papaleo's not All-America timber yet. He's a season or two away but it's difficult to see how he, as well as Spinney, Kennedy and Stautner can be left out of the balloting in the next season or two.

Papaleo plays alongside his service buddy Ernie "Horse" Stautner, regular right tackle. Both played for the El Toro Marines while in the service and they became fast friends during their tenure of service in the Marines.

Stautner not only is a good football player but he also acts like a standout player. He's got all the requisites of a good lineman.

He's fast, aggressive and extremely cagey. He's a hard man to trick. A resident of East Greenbush, N. Y., Stautner was born and brought up on a farm. He acquired his tremendous physique, massive chest, broad shoulders and strong, powerful arms by chopping down trees while a boy.

The right end position has been shared by three candidates this season, John Ring, sophomore from Dorchester, Stan Goode, Fitchburg second year man, and Captain Angelo Nicketakis. Ring's bang up showing against Wake Forest should have clinched the starting role for him.

The curley-haired sophomore who stands 6.1 and weighs 215 pounds played the best game of his career against the Deacons. It was a rare occasion when Wake Forest could run around him. He dived headlong into interference, forcing plays back towards the interior of the line. In addition, he broke through to leap in front of Fetzer and block one of his punts.

A quiet, easy going fellow off the field, Ring is an adept pass receiver. He's a good blocker and tackler and, in the words of end coach Dave Lucey, "Ring is developing into a fine end."

Only one man, Gianelli, will be lost out of the first string line this season. The remainder, except Kissell, have two more full seasons of varsity play.

Right now this line is capable of giving any team in the country, Notre Dame not excepted, a busy afternoon.

As one bruised and battered Wake Forest lineman said, "they aren't just good, they're great."

$255,000 Paid For 27 Minor League Players

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10 (AP)—Fourteen major league clubs paid out $255,000 for 27 minor league players in the annual draft today as compared with $184,000 paid for 20 "bushers" a year ago.

The world champion New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers, National League pennant winners, were the only ones who did not pick up players in the annual draft. The Chicago White Sox topped the talent seekers by paying $35,000 for three pitchers and a catcher.

Detroit selected one of the minor league's outstanding stars as they secured Clifford Dapper, a catcher, from Montreal. Dapper batted .291, drove in 105 runs and worked in 136 games for Mobile of the Southern Ass'n last year. The 27-year-old receiver won the league's "most valuable" award.

Max West, former Boston Brave and Cincinnati outfielder, will get another chance under the big top, as he was selected by Pittsburgh. West, 31, led the Pacific Coast League in home runs with 43 and was named the league's No. 1 player.

The St. Louis Browns, first to make a selection, chose Al Gerheauser, property of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who won 15 and lost 12 for Montreal last season.

Postpone Hearing on Owner, Trainer Complaint

NEW YORK, Nov. 100 (AP)—Hearing of a complaint against 140 owners and trainers of race horses, alleging refusal to bargain, was postponed today until Dec. 1 by I. L. Broadwin, chief trial examiner for the State Labor Relations Board.

The complaint was filed by Local 814, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America (AFL).

Organized Effort to Stop Seining of Striped Bass

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

WORCESTER, Nov. 10—In a sincere and determined effort to combat the seining of striped bass in Mass. waters, a lively meeting of representatives from several county leagues of sportsmen's clubs, members of rod and gun clubs and other officials took place in this city yesterday, sponsored by the Barnstable County League of Sportsmen's clubs.

An unexpected visitor was Howard Willard, chief warden of the Marine Fisheries, who made an appearance to answer numerous criticisms of the divisions for its failure to capture any of the seiners during the current season. Mr. Willard stated that because of continued chaos in the Department of Conservation his division lacked both personnel and equipment to apprehend the quotes pirates with nets.

"The present conservation budget will leave the Marine Fisheries Division without funds from January first to July first, 1948," Willard disclosed. "It is imperative, therefore, that we be granted an emergency appropriation in order to prevent the seiners from running wild next spring. Our new budget asked for more wardens and field men, in addition to engines with which to run our boats."

As a result of the chief wardens, plus suggestions set forth by other sportsmen, the group voted to appoint a five-man committee, which will attempt immediately to obtain Governor Bradford's approval for a deficiency appropriation of fifteen thousand dollars for the Marine Fisheries Division.

The committee will also contact Director A. K. Sloper, of the Dept. of Conservation asking him to bring up the subject of stripers at the coming meeting of the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission possibly urging that a uniform 16-inch minimum legal length law be adopted along the entire coast.

Members of the above committee include Francis Sargent, bass expert from Orleans; Frank Wolner, Worcester; Rep. Joseph Silvia, Martha's Vineyard; Leonard Nickerson of Plymouth County, and Theron Appolonio, president of the Barnstable County League of Sportsmen's Clubs.

It seemed to be the general consensus of opinion, that the best way to stop seining would be to have a federal law enacted, although the majority agree that such a project might take many years to accomplish.

Striper shorts: J. Arthur Vanburen, secretary of the Barnstable County League, announced that Dark Montreal, Sunday Advertiser rod and gun editor, intended to sponsor a bill in the next Massachusetts Legislature, which would prohibit the sale of all bass in this state.

This brought forth much comment, with many saying they thought such a bill would cause even more seining, adding that a federal law was the surest solution. Rep. Joseph Silvia declared: "This bill should ban the transportation as well as the sale, of striped bass." Bert Frimodig of Hyannis, acted as chairman at the meeting, and stated that he had seen seiners in action this summer . . . Everett St. John of the Massachusetts Sportsmen's Council, advocated that the sportsmen and commericail fishermen try to reach a compromise on the matter . . . Bill Chase, Jr., of Buzzards Bay, said: "Before we can hope to get a federal law, we must do something about seining here."

Probe Roughing Charge in Ezinicki

MONTREAL, Nov. 10 (AP)—Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, said today that charges of "deliberate" rough play by Bill Ezinicki of the Toronto Maple Leafs will be investigated when the officials who handled the Saturday night game between Toronto and New York Rangers reach Montreal.

Campbell said he had received a night letter from manager-coach Frank Boucher of the Rangers charging Ezinicki with deliberately injuring opponents. Ranger player Edgar Laprade suffered a brain concussion after a check by Ezinicki in the Saturday game in Toronto.

"The charges will be investigated as soon as I have had an oportunity to contact the officials who handled the game," Campbell said. "At the moment they are on the train for Montreal."

George Gravel was referee at the game and linesmen were Ray Getliffe and Sibby Mundey.

R.I.S. Harrier Leads Field

By HERB FINNEGAN

Crossing the finish line with a comfortable 200-yard lead, Bob Black, R. I. State harrier, made it two straight as he romped to another victory in the New England Intercollegiate cross-country championship at Franklin Park, Dorchester, this afternoon.

Black turned in a time of 22.29 on the wind-swept course as he led Ted Vogel, Tufts, to the wire over the 4¼ mile coure.

The hody hill-and-daler, confessing weakness from the flu that he shook off earlier this week, followed the field for the first two miles to allow them to "break the wind." Then, with Vogel the marathoner on his heels, he opened up to set the pace the remainder of the distance, increasing his margin over the Jumbo distance runner as he approached the finish.

Black won the championship last year as a freshman so that he's now in line to set a new New England record with four shots at the title. The record for the event, hardly threatened in the face of the strong cross wind, is 20.38.

Five years in the U. S. A. Infantry, including time in the South Pacific, stood Paul Zapula, Northeastern, in good stead at Franklin Park, Dorchester, yesterday, as he took top honors in the New England Intercollegiate Freshman cross country run.

Zapula's time for the 3¼ mile hill-and-dale course was 18:00.8. He was formerly a 1000-yarder for Watertown High School.

Bill to Bar Human Punching Bags From Ring

The human punching bag would be ruled out of the ring for two years by the terms of a bill filed in the House today by Rep. Howard Driscoll, Holyoke.

The bill provides for the two-year revocation of the license of any Massachusetts boxer who is KO'd five times within a year. Another provision would prohibit a prize fighter from engaging in any bouts for one month after he has been knocked out.

Ship Rock Horses To Bowie Track

SALEM, N. H., Nov. 10 (AP)—Four horses and a pony were shipped from Rockingham race track today to Maryland to test a ban in that state against horses at Rockingham during a recent epidemic of swamp fever.

The animals were in charge of J. Yancey Christtmas, who said if the Bowie track would not accept them he would take them to his farm at Marlboro, Md.

Christmas has certificates from Dr. R. W. Smith, state veterinarian, that the animals were in good health. They were the first to leave Rockingham for Maryland since outbreak of the disease and the first to pass tests and a 40-day waiting period.

Sopwith's 2 Yachts Saved From Junk Pile

PORTSMOUTH, England, Nov. 10 (AP)—T. O. M. Sopwith's two famous America cup challenger yachts, Fendeavour I and Endeavour II, have been saved from the shipwreckers and will be converted into auxiliary cruising vessels.

They were offered for sale at auction last April and when no bids were received for the yachts as they stood, they were sold in bits. The hulls were purchased by a wrecking firm for the lead in the keel.

JOCKEY SETS RECORD

LONDON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Jockey Gordon Richards set a British record for winning rides in one season by booting "Twenty Twenty" home in front today at Leicester—his 260th winner.

He set the British record of 259 in 1933 and equalled it last Saturday.

Money To Loan

I'm SOLD on YOU!

● IN MY BUSINESS, you can't guess—you've got to know. So when I say that I'm sold on local people my statement is based on knowledge.

I know that they are reliable. As manager of this office, I've made hundreds of loans during the past twelve months; many on salary alone, others on car or furniture.

I know that folks in this community use common sense in managing their affairs. You'd see what I mean if you could sit in with me on a loan request. My customers use their credit for good, constructive purposes like cleaning up old debts . . . paying taxes . . . putting a son or daughter through school . . . meeting sudden emergencies or taking advantage of a business opportunity.

I Say "YES" to 4 Out of 5

Because I'm sold on the people in our community, I have been able to say "Yes" to 4 out of 5 people who request a loan here. (That's why folks call me the YES MAN.) I—and I alone—have the authority to honor your loan request here.

Most times, I can say "Yes" right away. The few times when I can't say "Yes" at once, the customer and I talk it over to see how I can make the loan. You'd be surprised how many times I find a way to say "Yes" to loan requests that others can't or won't consider.

YOU!

With living expenses increasing and making both ends meet becoming more difficult daily, many folks find a loan the sensible solution to their money problems. Don't borrow unnecessarily but if—like so many others—that's your problem, don't risk a "no" elsewhere. Phone me . . . or come in and ask for the YES MAN. I'll be grateful for the chance to say "Yes" to YOU.

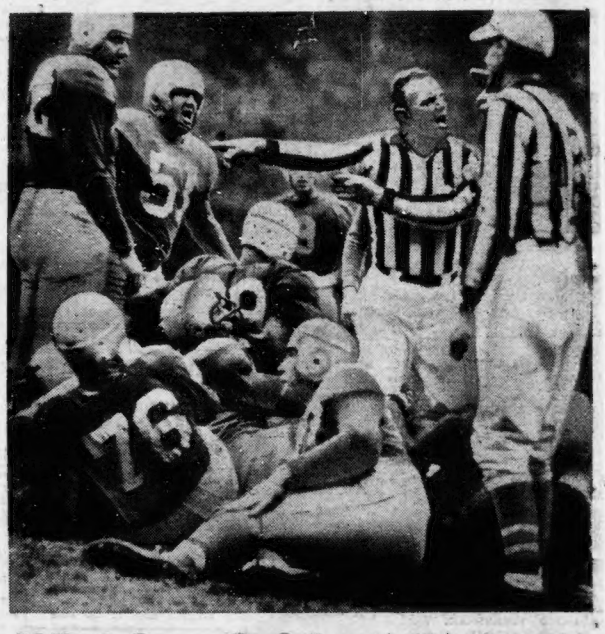
R. I. S. HARRIER SCORES VICTORY

STORY ON PAGE 58

Mello Mellowed—Boston Yank fullback, Jim Mello (66), is stopped by Los Angeles Rams after he made a six-yard gain in the second quarter of their game at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum. Aiding in the tackle is Pritko (30), Los Angeles end. The Boston club emerged victorious, 27 to 16. Frank (Boley) Dancewicz, ex-Notre Dame and Lynn gridster, threw three accurate passes to end Don Currivan, who scored on each. AP Wirephoto



What Goes On?—Two unidentified referees, who disagreed on a touchdown ruling during the pro football game between the Chicago Cardinals and the Detroit Lions at Detroit, indulge in heated argument as players take it easy. Les Lear (51) of the Lions added his protest, but the referee (facing the camera), who ruled it was a Cardinal touchdown, was victorious. Chicago won, 17 to 7. International News Photo
